Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

The Senate Passes the Land Grant Forfeiture Bill.

A SUMMARY OF THE MEASURE

Resumption of the Tariff Debate in the House—Caucus of Democratic Representatives—Congressional Notes

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Among the bills reported from committees and placed on the calendar were the following:

Senate bill for the appointment of a commission to select a site for a naval station on the Pacific coast; senate bill to transfer the survey of coasts to the navy department.

Sherman from the committee on foreign relations reported back adversely the resolution offered by Riddleberger for consideration of the fisheries treaty in open session and also the resolution offered by Hoar for a report of the debates and proceedings on the fisheries treaty to be subject to the order of the senate as to its publication. The resolution will be taken up for action to-morrow.

The senate resumed consideration of the railroad land grant forfeiture bill. Some minor amendments were adopted, and the bill was passed without division.

The first section declares forfeited to the United States all lands granted to any state or to any corporation to aid in the construction of a railroad opposite to and coterminus with the portion of such railroad not now completed and in operation for the construction or benefit of which lands heretofore have been granted and all such lands are declared to be part of the public domain. The act is not to be construed as a forfeiture of the right of way or depot grounds of any railroad company heretofore granted nor as limiting the rights granted to purchasers or settlers by an act to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by congress to aid in the construction of railroads, and for other purposes approved March 3, 1887, nor as repealing, altering or amending that act nor as in any manner affecting any cause of action existing in favor of a purchaser.

The second section authorizes persons in possession of any such lands (prior to the 1st of January 1888), to purchase them (within two years) from the United States in quantities not exceeding 320 acres, at the rate of $2 50 per acre.

The third section refers to lands of the Northern Pacific railroad company heretofore forfeited and gives persons in possession (prior to the first of July, 1885) a like right and confirms to the city of Portland, Oregon, right of way and riparian rights for a water pipe line.

The fourth section reserves the right to forfeit other railroad grant lands for failure past or future to comply with conditions.

The fifth section exempts from the operation of the act certain grants to the states of Mississippi and Alabama.

The sixth section sets the price of even numbered sections of land within the limits of forfeited land grants at $— an acre.

The seventh section repeals certain sections of land grant acts for Minnesota and Iowa.

The last section refers specially to the lands of the Portage Lake Canal Company.

After some debate the international copyright bill was passed—yeas 35, nays 10. The act is to go into effect July 1, 1888.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Continuation of the Debate on the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The bill appropriating $150 200 for government participation in the centennial celebration of the settlement of the Ohio Valley was passed.

The house after the passage of several bills of minor importance, went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill. Morrow of California concluded his speech in opposition to the bill, addressing himself more especially to the free lumber clause of the measure. He stated that labor engaged in the manufacture of lumber on the Pacific coast was exclusively well paid American labor. The placing of lumber on the free list would ruin this manufacture by bringing it into competition with the manufacturers of British Columbia, where labor was performed by Chinamen. He also declared that the raisin industry of California would be destroyed if the duty on raisins was reduced, as proposed by the bill, ½ cent per pound.

Passing to consideration of the borax interests, he referred to the rapid growth of the industry since the tariff had been placed on borax in 1883. The domestic product had increased from 560 000 pounds in 1883, to 10,800 000 pounds in 1887 while the price owing to home competition, had declined from 25 cents a pound to 6¼ cents per pound. The pending bill proposed to place borax on the free list, and the effect of this proposition was that the great firm of William T. Coleman & Co had been compelled to suspend.

Hooker of Mississippi spoke in favor of the bill while Houk, of Tennessee, followed with a speech against it.

Wise of Virginia also favored it, and Kennedy of Ohio, denounced the democratic party as one of free trade.

Boutelle, of Maine, then quoted authorities in support of his declaration that Garfield was not a member of the Cobden Club. In the same connection he read a letter from Murat Halstead, which explained the circumstances under which he became a member.

Bynum of Indiana, cited authorities to show that Garfield had been elected a member of the Cobden Club, and had accepted the membership.

The committee then rose and the house adjourned.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

A Number of Amendments Proposed to the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The democratic caucus to-night called together about 125 members of the house. Carlisle was not present but Randall was. The proceedings were harmonious throughout.

A resolution was adopted "that any member desiring to offer an amendment to the tariff bill shall, if he be now prepared, hand it to the secretary of the caucus to be read and referred to the democratic members of the ways and means committee, and if not already prepared, he may hand the same to said members. It shall be the duty of said members to consider all such amendments, and if requested, to hear the parties offering the same, and to report the amendments back severally to another caucus to be hereafter held with their recommendations thereon."

Representative Campbell suggested that it would be well if the committee should agree not to report the amendments before the New York democratic convention next week and to the suggestion a favorable response was made.

Among the amendments presented and referred were the following:

By Crane of Texas—To place sheep shears, surgical instruments, coal and all machinery used in the manufacture of cotton bagging or woolen goods on the free list. Also, to reduce the tariff on woolen manufactured goods to 25 per cent ad valorem; to fix the duty at 2 cents per yard on cotton bagging, or other manufactures suitable for the use to which cotton bagging is applied, composed in whole or in part of hemp, jute, flax, gunny bags, guernsey cloth, etc.

By Caruth of Kentucky—Fixing the duty on hemp, jute and flax at 2 cents per yard.

By Holman of Indiana—A resolution declaring that the duty on sugar ought to be reduced 50 per cent., that the duty on rice ought not to be reduced, and that coal ought to be placed on the free list.

Johnson, of North Carolina—To repeal the internal revenue laws, and place a tax on incomes to supply the deficiency.

By Cummings, of New York—Fixing the rate of duty on flax, hackled, at $40 per ton, on yarns of flax and hemp at 40 per cent ad valorem and on thread and twines at the same rate.

By McAdoo of New Jersey—Placing carpet wools, coal, salt, goat hair, timber, building stones, lumber and chemicals on the free list.

By Springer of Illinois—Placing on the free list all manufactured products, the domestic production of which may be controlled by trust.

By Ryan of Maryland—Retaining the duty on manufactured clothing, bristles and glue.

By Clover of Missouri—Retaining the present duties on glass.

By Dougherty of Florida—Increasing the duty on oranges 25 per cent over the present rate.

At Springer's suggestion a resolution was adopted providing that hereafter the daily sessions of the house shall commence at 11 A. M.

The caucus then adjourned subject to call by the democratic members of the ways and means committee, which is to be issued when they have acted upon the proposed amendments.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

A Change of Plan Proposed by the Chief Signal Officer.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—In view of the necessity of furnishing night indications to the press of the country at an earlier hour than at present is practicable and in order to facilitate the intention of the chief signal officer to place more promptly, satisfactorily and clearly before the general public the observations of the signal corps, it has been decided to substitute telegraphic observations at 8 A. M. and 8 P. M., standard Eastern time, for the three observations now telegraphed. The third telegraphic observation will be replaced by special observations sent to this office which will keep the indications officer fully advised as to the edge of advancing cold waves, local storms or other marked atmospheric phenomena. In addition there will be mailed from the large commercial centers to the surrounding points each day charts which will enable those interested as well as the general public to note for themselves the advance of storms. By this means local meteorologists will frequently be able to decide for themselves more satisfactorily than can be done by the present general predictions from the main office as to the character of the weather which may be expected in their own locality.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

A Favorable Report Ordered on a Proposed Amendment.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The senate committee on interstate commerce to-day ordered a favorable report upon the amendment to the sixteenth section of the interstate commerce law, which section now provides for summary proceedings by mandatory or other process by United States circuit courts sitting in equity to enforce any lawful order or requirement of the commission. The amendment continues the provisions of the section as they now stand to any order or requirement of the commission not founded upon a controversy requiring trial by jury, but as to matters which under the constitution require trial by jury it is proposed that the commission or any person interested may apply in a summary way to circuit courts sitting as courts of law. The amendment makes provision for the speedy trial of such cases and provides that on the hearing findings of fact by the commission shall be prima facie evidence. It also provides that the court, by its order, shall fix the time for trial not less than twenty nor more than forty days from the date of the order.

FOR CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Terms of a Bill Prepared by Dolph and Stewart.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Dolph and Senator Stewart prepared a Chinese exclusion bill to-day which will be introduced in the senate to-morrow. The bill is intended to carry out the provisions of the new Chinese treaty and Senator Stewart thinks that it will prevent the landing of any Chinese laborers who are not entitled, under the treaty, to enter the United States. The new bill provides that the provisions of the bill shall go into operation immediately upon its passage. This is intended to exclude all Chinese who have left this country with certificates and who have not returned. It also provides that Chinese laborers who are entitled to return, having either a family or one thousand dollars in this country, shall be entitled to land only at the following places: Portland, Oregon, San Francisco, California, Boston, Mass., New York and New Orleans. The bill is made up from other bills which have been presented to congress at this session by Morrow, Felton, Belmont, Mitchell and Stewart.

THE MELBOURNE COMMISSION.

The Allowance to Its Members by No Means Munificent.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The deputy commissioners to the Melbourne exposition are to receive $2500 each, with no allowance for their expenses. Mr McCoppin, chief commissioner, is to receive $2000 salary and $1500 for expenses. Lieutenant Marix, of the navy, has been detailed to act as paymaster and secretary to the commissioners. The allowance made by the secretary of state and the fixed salaries for the commissioners with no allowance for expenses are considered to be extraordinarily small. The commissioners will probably be engaged for six to eight months at the exposition.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

To Protect Mail Carriers.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Mitchell reported from the committee on postoffices and postroads to-day his bill forbidding the postmaster general to cancel any valid and existing contract between the United States and any of its contractors for the performance of mail service over any given route for no other reason or upon no other ground than that it is for the purpose of increasing the frequency of the service on such routes, and where no change in the means of transportation is intended, and in any case where the contractors are willing to perform the increased service at pro rata.

For Arrears of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The house committee on appropriations to-day resolved to report a bill appropriating $3 500 000 to meet deficiencies in the appropriation for the payment of arrears of pensions during the remainder of the present fiscal year. The appropriation is proposed to be made as an original item, the committee declining to accept the recommendation of the commissioner of pensions that a sufficient sum to supply the deficit be transferred to the credit of the appropriation for arrears of pensions from the appropriation for Mexican war pensions where, he says, it is not needed.

To Succeed Gen. Ewing.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The attorney general to-day appointed Frank A. Branigan, of Ohio, to be disbursing and appointment clerk of the department of justice, vice James W. Ewing removed. It is thought that Ewing's accounts are $9300 short. This amount is amply secured by his bond.

Pay for Mail Carriage.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Postmaster General Dickinson to-day issued an order fixing $42 75 per mile per annum as the minimum compensation to be allowed for transportation of mails on railroads carrying their whole length an average of not less than 200 pounds per day.

INGERSOLL'S TRIBUTE.

A MAN WHO LOVED THE RIGHT

Who Hated Slavery and Took High Ground When His Party Trembled Before the Monster—His Career and His Talents

ALBANY, May 9.—Thirty-five hundred people in the Academy of Music in this city to-night listened to an oration by Col. Robert Ingersoll to the memory of Roscoe Conkling, and one-fourth as many more besieged the barred doors while many climbed to the roof and peered through the skylights. The ceremonies were under the auspices of the senate and the assembly.

Col. Ingersoll said in substance: Roscoe Conkling—great man, orator, statesman, lawyer, distinguished citizen of the republic, in the zenith of his fame and power has reached his journey's end and we are met here in the city of his birth to pay our tribute to his worth and work. He earned and held a proud position in public thought. He stood for independence, for courage, and above all for absolute integrity, and his name was known and honored by many millions of fellowmen. In the presence of death a good man judges as he would be judged. He knows that men are only fragments, that the greatest walk in shadow and that faults and failures mingle with the lives of all. In the grave should be buried prejudices and passions born of conflict. Charity should hold the scales in which are weighed the deeds of men. Peculiarities, traits born of locality and surroundings, these are but the dust of the race; these are accidents, drapery, clothes, fashions, that have nothing to do with man except to hide his character. They are clouds that cling to the mountains. Time gives us clearer vision. That which was merely local fades away. Words of envy are forgotten and all there is of sterling worth remains. He who was called partisan is called patriot. Fortunate is that nation great enough to know the great.

How poor this world would be without its graves, without the memories of its mighty dead. Only the voiceless speak forever. Intelligence, integrity and courage are the great pillars that support the state. Above all, the citizens of a free nation should honor a brave and independent man, a man of stainless integrity, of will and intellectual force. Such men are the Atlases on whose mighty shoulders rest the great fabric of the republic.

Flatterers, cringers, crawlers and time servers are dangerous citizens of a democracy. They who gain applause and power by pandering to the mistakes, prejudices and passions of the multitude are the enemies of liberty.

Most people are slaves of habit, followers of custom, believers in the wisdom of the past, and were it not for brave and splendid souls the dust of the antique time would lie unswept, and mountainous error be too highly heaped for truth to overawe. Custom is a prison, locked and barred by those who long ago were dust, the keys of which are in the keeping of the dead. Nothing is grander than when a strong, intrepid man breaks the chains, levels the walls and breasts the many headed mob like some great cliff that mocks the innumerable billows of the seas.

The politician hastens to agree with the majority, insists that their prejudice is patriotism and their ignorance wisdom. Not that he loves them but because he loves himself. The statesman, the real reformer, points out the mistakes of the multitude, attacks the prejudices of his countrymen, laughs at their follies, denounces their cruelties, enlightens and enlarges their minds and conscience. Not because he loves himself, but because he loves and serves the right, and wishes to make his country great and free. He who refuses to stoop, who cannot be bribed by the promise of success or fear of failure, who walks the highway of right and, in disaster, stands erect, is the only victor. When real history shall be written by the truthful and the wise, those who bore the burden of defeat, who earned and kept their self respect, who would not bow to man or men for place or power, will wear upon their brows the laurel mingled with the oak.

Roscoe Conkling was a man of superb courage. He not only acted without fear, but he had that fortitude of soul that bears the consequences of a course pursued without complaint. He was charged with being proud. The charge was true. He was proud. His knees were as inflexible as the unbending, gnarled oak. But he was not vain. Vanity is the vine that twines the willow that bends with every breeze. Pride is the oak that defies the storm. One is weakness, the other strength.

This imperious man entered public life in the dawn of reformation, at a time when the country needed men of pride, of principle and courage. The institution of slavery had poisoned all the springs of power. Before this ambition fell upon its knees, politicians, judges, clergymen and merchant princes bowed low and humbly with their heads. Slavery was the bond and pledge of peace, of union and of national greatness. The temple of American liberty was finished and the auction block was the cornerstone. It is hard to conceive of the utter demoralization, of the political blindness and immorality, of the patriotic dishonesty, of the cruelty and degradation of a people, who supplemented the incomparable Declaration of Independence with the fugitive slave law. Think of the honored statesmen of that ignoble time who wallowed in this mire and who, decorated with dripping filth, received the plaudits of their fellowmen! The noble, really patriotic men were victims of mobs, and the shameless were clad in robes of office.

At last the conflict came. The hosts of light and darkness prepared to meet upon the fields of war. The question was presented: Shall the republic be slave or free? The republican party which had triumphed at the polls retreated in the presence of rebellion. Hoping to avoid war they were willing that slavery should become immortal. An amendment to the constitution was proposed to the effect that no subsequent amendment should ever be made that in any way should interfere with the right of man to steal his fellow men. This, the most marvelous proposition ever submitted to a congress of civilized men, received in the house an overwhelming majority and the necessary two-thirds in the senate. The republican party in the moment of its triumph deserted every principle for which it had so gallantly contended, and with the trembling hands of fear laid its convictions upon the altar of compromise. The old guard, numbering but sixty-five in the house, stood firm as the 300 at Thermopylæ. Thaddeus Stephens refused to kneel. Owen Lovejoy refused to surrender, and on the edge of disunion, in the shadow of civil war, with the air filled with the sounds of dreadful preparation, while the republican party was retracing its steps, Roscoe Conkling voted no.

This puts a wreath of glory on his tomb. From that vote to the last moment of his life he was the champion of right. Staunch and stalwart from that moment he stood in the front rank. He never wavered and he never swerved. He battled for the rights of slaves, the dignity of labor and the liberty of all. He guarded with a father's care the rights of the hunted, hated and despised. He attacked the savage statutes of the reconstructed states with a torrent of invective, scorn and execration. He was not satisfied until the freedman was an American citizen, clothed with every civil right, until the constitution was his shield, until the ballot was his sword. Others wavered, but he stood firm. Some were false, but he was proudly true and fearlessly faithful unto death.

Nothing can be grander than to sow seeds of noble thoughts and virtuous deeds, to liberate the bodies and souls of men, to earn the grateful homage of a race, and then in life's last shadowy hour, to know and feel that the historian of liberty will be compelled to write your name. The history of that great party that let the oppressed go free, that lifted our nation from the depths of savagery to freedom's cloudless heights and tore with holy hands from every law words that sanctified the cruelty of man, is the most glorious in the annals of our race.

Roscoe Conkling was an absolutely honest man. He uttered the splendid truth that "the higher obligations among men are not set down in writing, signed and sealed, but reside in honor." He was the ideal representative, faithful and incorruptible. He believed his constituents and his country were entitled to the fruit of his experience, to his best and highest thoughts. No man ever held the standard of reputation higher than he. He voted according to his judgment, his conscience. He made no bargains. He neither bought nor sold. To correct evils, abolish abuses and inaugurate reforms he believed was not only the duty but a privilege of the legislator. He neither sold nor mortgaged himself. He was in congress during the years of vast expenditure, of war and waste. When the credit of the nation was loaned to individuals, when claims were as thick as leaves in June, when the amendment of a statute, the change of a single word meant millions, and when empires were given to corporations, he stood at the summit of his power, the peer of the greatest, a leader tried and trusted. He had the taste of a prince and the fortunes of a peasant, and yet he never swerved. No corporation was great enough or rich enough to purchase him. His vote could not be bought for all the sun sees or the profound sea hides. His hand was never touched by any bribe and on his soul there never was a sordid stain.

Poverty was his priceless crown. Above his marvelous intellectual gifts, above all the places he ever reached, above the ermine he refused, rises his integrity, like some great mountain peak, and there it stands, firm as the earth beneath, pure as the stars above.

He was a great lawyer. He understood the frame work, anatomy and foundation of law, was familiar with the great streams, and currents and tides of authority. He knew the history of legislation and the principles that have been settled on the fields of war. He knew those crystallizations of common sense, those hand grenades of argument. He was not a case lawyer, a decision index, or an echo. He was original, thoughtful and profound. He had breadth and scope, resource, learning, logic, and above all, sense of justice. He was painstaking and conscientious, anxious to know facts, preparing for every attack, ready for every defense. He rested only when the end was reached. During a contest he neither sent nor raised a flag of truce. He was true to his clients, making their case his feeling, responsibility. He listened patiently to details and to his industry there were only limits of time and strength.

He was a student of the constitution. He knew the boundaries of federal jurisdiction, and no man was more familiar with those decisions that are the peaks and promontories, headlands and beacons of the law.

He was an orator—earnest, logical, intense and picturesque. He laid the foundation with care, with accuracy and skill, and rose by "cold gradation and well balanced form" from the cornerstone of statement to the dome of conclusion. He filled the stage, he saddened the eye, the audience was his.

He had that indefinable thing called presence. Tall, commanding, erect, ample in speech, graceful in compliment, Titanic in denunciation, rich in illustration, prodigal of comparison and metaphor, and his sentences, measured and rythmical, fell like music on the enraptured throng.

He abhorred the Pharisee and loathed all conscientious frauds. He had a profound aversion for those who insist on putting a base motive back of good deeds of others. He wore no mask. He knew his friends, his enemies knew him. He had no patience with pretense, with patriotic reasons for unmanly acts. He did his work well and bravely spoke his thought.

Sensitive to the last degree, he keenly felt the blow and stab of the envious and obscure, the small blow of the weakest, but the greatest could not drive him from conviction's field. He would not stop to ask or give explanation. He left his words and deeds to justify themselves. He held in light esteem a friend who heard with half-believing ear the slander of a foe. He walked a highway of his own, and kept the company of his self respect. He would not turn aside to avoid a foe, to greet or gain a friend. In his nature there was no compromise. To him there were but two paths, right and wrong. He was maligned, misrepresented and misunderstood, but he would not answer. He knew that character spoke louder far than any words. He was as silent then as he is now, and his silence, better than any form of speech, refuted every charge.

He was an American, proud of his country, that was and ever will be proud of him. He did not find perfections in other lands; he did not grow small and shrunken, withered and apologetic in the presence of those upon whom greatness had been thrust by chance. He could not be overawed by dukes or lords, or flattered into vertebraeless subserviency by the patronizing smiles of kings. In the midst of conventionalities he had a feeling of suffocation. He believed in the royalty of man, in the sovereignty of the citizen, and the matchless greatness of this republic.

He was of classic mould, a figure from the antique world. He had the pose of great statues, the pride and bearing of the intellectual [illegible] of the conquering Roman, and he stood in the free air as though in his veins there flowed the blood of a hundred kings.

And as he lived he died. Proudly he entered the darkness or the dawn that we call death. Unbending he passed beyond the horizon, beyond the twilight's purple hills, beyond the utmost reach of human harm or help, to that vast realm of silence or of joy where the innumerable dwell. And he has left with us his wealth of thought and deed; the memory of a brave, imperious, honest man, who bowed alone to death.

INDIGNANT DENIAL.

They are not on Exhibition in a Dime Museum.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The father of Cora Belle Fellows, who recently married Chaska, a Sioux, said that a story sent from St Paul yesterday that the newly married couple has accepted an offer of $5000 for a ten weeks' engagement in a dime museum is an outrageous lie. It is suspected some museum manager proposed exhibiting some bogus Mr. and Mrs. Chaska.

Bond Purchases.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The secretary of the treasury to-day accepted bonds to the amount of $1 8000 out of $2 474 000 offered.

Advices From the Far North—Olympia Republicans For Blaine—Prohibitionists Defeated by Tinted Tickets—Etc.

[From THE OREGONIAN'S W. T. Representative.]

SEATTLE, May 9.—When THE OREGONIAN arrived here to-day, with the exclusive announcement of the serious tangle in which the last legislature involved the territory, by unwittingly legislating itself into two sessions, it conveyed to the general public the first intimation of the trouble, and caused much talk and speculation. The general impression, at first sight, is that Attorney-Gen. Metcalf is correct in his construction of the law, and the opinion is that unless Congress takes some action there will probably be a serious conflict when the day for the beginning of the next legislative session arrives.

For example, assume that the members to be elected next November are of the opinion that the tenure of office act does not affect them. They will meet in legislative session on the second Monday of January next, and being judge of all questions affecting qualifications of members, they will proceed to seat themselves.

On the other hand the members of the last legislature, on the theory that the tenure of office act does apply to the members to be elected next November, will hold that they only are the legally constituted legislature. Then a conflict will be precipitated, and probably a repetition of the dispute which occurred in the state of Maine about ten years ago, will take place. It will be remembered that the military was called out by the governor, and that cannon played a part in politics. That dispute was settled by submitting a series of legal propositions to the supreme court.

Of course, in the present case, if congress steps in and remedies matters, as it has a perfect right to do under the provisions of the United States statute, a conflict will be avoided. Now that the subject has been brought to public attention, it will receive close investigation by the leaders of both parties, and the result will be a good deal of very interesting speculation. Nothing can be done outside of congress, except to await the time for assembling by the legislature, before which time the conflict cannot be precipitated or determined.

MONTANA NEWS.

The Mullan Tunnel—Soldier Probably Drowned—Fifty Horses Stolen.

HELENA, May 9.—Trains are still running over the switchback at the Mullan tunnel, although it is claimed that the tunnel will be cleared again very shortly. There is a large force of men clearing the track and repairing the damage. This will not exceed a few thousand dollars. It is believed that trains can be run through the tunnel again by Friday or Saturday, or not later than the middle of next week. The company is moving all freight cars the same as usual and passenger traffic is not delayed to any great extent.

PROBABLY DROWNED.

FORT SHAW, May 9.—A soldier named Brown, belonging to company K, Third infantry, while on his way to the guard house for some offense, broke away from the sergeant in whose custody he was, and ran to the river bank, over which he jumped—a hight of about twenty-five feet—into the river below. The sergeant followed him to the bank and saw him in the water, but did not follow further. Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of Brown, and whether he swam to the other shore and deserted or was drowned is still a mystery. Men were sent out to look for him this morning, but no trace of him was found.

WHOLESALE HORSE-STEALING.

FORT SHAW, May 9.—A man named McIntyre, alias "Slim Jim," ran off a band of about fifty horses from this vicinity, across the line into Canada. The Canadian mounted police are on his trail. Mr. Morris, owner of the Sweetland ranch, offers $200 reward for the capture and conviction of the thieves. McIntyre is a noted horsethief, and has served a term in the Deer Lodge penitentiary for a theft committed a few years ago from the Sweetland Ranch.

ARRANGING A PRIZE FIGHT.

HELENA, Mont., May 9.—The prospects for a fight to a finish between Billy Hawkins and Jim Bates are pretty good. Hawkin's backers thought that Bates did not care to make the match, as he had not been heard from. Yesterday Louis Matheson got a letter from Bates's backers, telling him to go ahead and make a match, the only stipulated condition being that it should not take place within thirty days. Matheson sent back word last night that some of them would have to come over to Helena to sign the articles, and that the money is waiting to be put up. The first deposit or forfeit will be $200, and the balance will be posted shortly before the date of meeting. It will probably take place in private, and will probably be the severest fight ever seen in the territory.

FROM THE NORTH

Advices from the Indian Mission—A Great Coal Strike.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 9.—Rev. Father Lemuenen arrived from the Clayouquest mission station this morning. He reports that the Indians are greatly excited over the mysterious disappearance of the head chief of the Muchalet tribe, a belief prevailing that he has been murdered by a hostile tribe above Hesquiat. The missing chief visited the Maechat tribe, carrying some fish hooks asked for, and has been missing ever since. The Indians desire an investigation. The Rev. Father says an outbreak will not occur. The Indians are also greatly troubled over the Behring dispute. Though employment in this industry has been their chief support, they refuse to accompany vessels into the sea for fear of seizure. Father Lemuenen reports the missions prospering, and that the Indians are gradually giving up all savage practices.

WHEREAS, We feel a great and just pride in the ability and statesmanship of our standard bearer in the last presidential campaign, the Hon. James G. Blaine, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we utterly repudiate and deeply regret the action of the delegates to the last republican convention held at North Yakima, who voted against the resolutions offered by delegate G. G. Lyons, of King county, eulogistic of Hon. James G. Blaine.

Immediately on the adoption of the resolution, three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Blaine.

The next grand lodge session will be held at Port Townsend.

THE JUVENILES.

TINTED TICKETS.

Silverton Prohibitionists Sadly Discomfited by Their Use.

SALEM, Or., May 9.—At the city election at Silverton Monday there was a fierce contest between the citizens' and prohibition tickets, and the result was a substantial victory for the former. Five councilmen were to be elected, and of ten candidates one received forty and five thirty-eight votes. The latter five, of whom two were prohi's, would have been compelled to draw lots for office, but it has been ascertained that the prohi tickets were printed on tinted paper, and therefore are, according to the statute, illegal. The consequence is that the entire citizens' ticket will be declared elected. The prohibitionists are badly discomfited over the outcome of the election.

Judge George H. Williams spoke to a large audience at Silverton this afternoon.

A LARGE PENSION.

An Iowa Man to Receive Over Twelve Thousand Dollars.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Word has been received here that what is believed to be one of the largest, if not the largest, pensions on record has been granted to C. B. Gillett, of Whatcheer, Iowa, the amount being $12,613. Gillett received a sunstroke while in the army, was treated at the hospital for disease of the eyes, and finally discharged from service on account of this disability. For two or three years thereafter he was troubled with dimness of vision, and about 1864 became totally blind. In 1872 he applied for a pension, but his claim was rejected in 1878, on the ground that his blindness could not be directly traced to sunstroke while in the service. A few years since his relatives and attorney had the case reopened, and the result is an allowance of over $12,000 on the first payment, and $72 a month during the remainder of his life.

Gillet is a brother of Mrs. C. M. Judkins, of Eugene, Oregon, who is now visiting her son, T. C. Judkins, in this city.

A BIG ACCOUNT SQUARED.

Senator Fair Receives Two Million Dollars from the Nevada Bank.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—An executive meeting of the directors of the Nevada bank was held to-day. Details of the business transacted have not transpired, but in banking circles it is known that ex-Senator Fair had been paid a balance of $2,000,000 which the bank owed him. This squared the account between the old bonanza partners that has been unsettled, and Mackey, Flood and Fair have now arranged all their financial affairs as relating to each other completely satisfactorily.

The $2,000,000 which Senator Fair received to-day in settlement of his claims against the Nevada bank represented the bulk of the money which he put in the concern to tide over the troubles caused by the wheat deal.

MALICIOUSLY DONE.

Ex-Governor Perkins' Views on the Sinking of the Queen of the Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Ex-Gov. Perkins, of Goodall, Perkins & Co., made an examination of the Queen of the Pacific this morning, and after closely questioning the officers and crew decided that the vessel had been sunk solely by water which had passed through a ten-inch deadlight. Gov. Perkins said the company was satisfied that the deadlight was opened by some maliciously disposed person, not with the intention of sinking the ship, but to cause trouble for Capt. Alexander, owing to a difficulty which the captain had with sailors sometime ago.

CUT HIS THROAT.

A Despondent Traveling Man Who Claims to Hail from Portland.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Charles Smith, a traveling man, who says he is from Portland, cut his throat at the What Cheer house about 6 o'clock this morning. He was out of employment and without money, for the first time in his life, he said, and would rather be dead than become a beggar at his age. He is about 50 years old. His windpipe was cut and Police Surgeon Martineau performed a timely operation which will save his life.

In entering the bay she came directly across north spit, entirely out of the channel, and at low tide, and stuck on the sand for a couple of hours. But as the tide raised she floated off without damage. She will sail to-morrow for the Siuslaw.

A Brilliant Wedding.

HELENA, May 9.—The most brilliant wedding ever celebrated in the territory was that to-night of Miss Anne, daughter of ex-Governor Hauser, and Richard Allen, a wealthy mining and cattleman. The presents were very numerous, and came from all sections of the country.

RAIN STOPS A GOOD GAME.

PITTSBURG, May 9.—The weather was very threatening and the attendance at the ball game light. The home club was defeated after a hotly contested game. Gleason pitched a good game for the Phillies and they were beginning to hit Henderson pretty hard when the game was called, in the middle of the eighth inning, on account of a shower. Score: Pittsburg 1, Philadelphia 2.

THE CHAMPIONS DEFEATED.

DETROIT, May 9.—Boston played but an indifferent game, but the work of the champions was miserable and they could not but lose. Bad base running and worse fielding contributed to the result. Score: Detroit 6, Boston 13.

THE FAILURE OF COLEMAN & CO.

The Lost Steamer Eureka—Remarkable Case of Drowning—A Long Sentence—Personal and General Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The Northern Pacific will make arrangements with the Southern Pacific Company by which tickets to the republican national convention at Chicago will be made good to go from or return to this city via Portland and St. Paul. Delegates and their friends will be given an opportunity to see the Yellowstone park free of charge. Agent Stateler here thinks that many of the returning delegates will travel by the Northern Pacific. Other lines will make similarly strong inducements to the delegates to have them return over their roads.

The Northern Pacific representatives here are now quite certain that their road will be sure for the return or the eastern trip of three-fourths of the delegates to the national educational convention.

To persons coming from the East, the route of the ticket may be changed in this city or at Portland on the payment of $10. Via the Northern Pacific the return trip will cost $77, as against $62 by the other transcontinental lines. Pullman rates will be $18 50 for one double berth from this city to St. Paul or Minneapolis.

Excursions from Portland to The Dalles, Tacoma and Seattle will be given teachers, and arrangements will be made for those who may desire to visit Alaska, the price of round trip tickets having been placed at $110. J. E. Sheperd, of the Northern Pacific, has gone to Santa Cruz.

The manager of the temperance excursion to the East says that he will have at least ten car loads of cold water disciples for their special train leaving here on the 23d inst. He also says they have arranged to run through to the Missouri river without change of cars.

The delegates to the national prohibition convention will leave the party at Indianapolis, but the greater number will continue on the way to the East. The prohibitionists have promises of pre-arranged "Welcomes" at different points along their route.

THE COLEMAN FAILURE.

Three Assignments Made by the Different Borax Companies.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The assignees of W. T. Coleman & Co. have placed their own representative in charge of the establishment, and marked a number of employes for dismissal. Only those clerks will be retained who have charge of the books and are necessary in making up the inventory of the assets and liabilities. This labor will be concluded in about two weeks.

Three assignments were filed in the office of the county recorder to-day, the assigning companies being the Meridian Borax Company, Harmony Borax Company and California Chemical Company, and the assignee being A. L. Tubbs. The property of the companies consists of borate lands in Inyo and San Bernardino counties, and the assignment is an offshoot of that made by Coleman & Co Monday.

Mr. Coleman stated as to the reason of these later assignments: "The total amount of borate lands owned by the firm consists of 10,000 acres, the larger part in Inyo county, but some in San Bernardino county. For the better management of these lands four companies were organized, to which the lands were deeded, the companies being the Harmony, Meridian, Henry Clay and Desert Borate Company. In addition to these there is situated in Alameda county a manufacturing establishment known as the California Chemical Works, where the products of these borate fields were worked up. These properties also embrace other possessions, all of which are assets of Wm. T. Coleman. These companies, in doing a business involving large sums of money, have drawn drafts on the firm of William T. Coleman & Co., which have been accepted and sold in the East. Very little indebtedness has been contracted by the companies save these accounts and drafts, some of which are now about maturing, and therefore to prevent complications and waste, the companies have assigned. My legal adviser considering that it would be better to have a different assignee in these cases from those acting for the firm, A. L. Tubbs accepted the assigneeship of the properties. They are part of the assets of the house, and would have gone in the assignment to Sloss & Baker but for a desire to avoid any conflict on the rights and interests between the company and other interests involved."

THE LOST STEAMER EUREKA.

She Belonged to the Southern Pacific, and Carried California Freight.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The steamship Eureka, that went down off the coast of Virginia the other day, while on its way from New York to New Orleans, belonged to the Southern Pacific Company. It was one of the line of steamers that forms a portion of the "Sunset route" between San Francisco and New York via New Orleans. No definite particulars about the cargo of the vessel has as yet reached the freight office of the company in this city, but it is said that 800 tons of freight bound for California formed a portion of the cargo.

REMARKABLE CASE OF DROWNING.

A Large Wave Sweeps a Man and His Boy from the Beach.

SANTA ANA, May 9.—George Drury, 8-year-old son of Thomas Drury, of Laguna, was drowned to-day while he and his father were searching for shells on the beach. There was a very heavy sea at the time, and a large wave rolled over them, and both were carried out. The father held to the boy, but the waves were too fierce, and the boy was torn from him and drifted out. Drury was badly bruised about the arms by being dashed on the rocks. The body was not recovered.

THE CALIFORNIA DELEGATES.

They Will Go to Chicago in a Manner Befitting the State.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The republican delegation to the Chicago convention from this state has engaged forty-five rooms at the Leland house. Also a hall in the hotel, which is about fifty feet square. In the latter place the delegates will hold their meetings. Sixteen regular delegates, and the same number of alternates, all intend going to the convention in a body. The word "alternate" is to be dropped by the delegation and all will go as the California representation, but of course only the regular delegates can vote in the convention. They intend to take with them the First artillery band of Sacramento, composed of twenty pieces. They expect to leave on Sunday, June 10, on a special train, and will stop over at Salt Lake City and Denver on the way East.

It is expected that the Transcontinental Association, which meets here on Tuesday next, will make half rates for the round trip, return tickets being good over any road. Should this be done, the excursion accompanying the delegation will be a large one.

CALIFORNIA.

A Long Sentence.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Charles R. Bachman, convicted yesterday on a charge of arson in setting fire to the British bark Brussels, was sentenced to-day to thirty-five years' imprisonment at San Quentin.

In passing sentence, the judge said the crime of arson was one of the gravest known to law. When he touched a match to the inflammable material in the hold of the Brussels, there were many innocent persons on board placed in danger of frightful death. But this, bad as it was, was not the worst of Bachman's fiendish crime, for he had attempted to fasten the guilt upon the captain and watchman of the bark Brussels, and had for a time, succeeded in casting unjust suspicion on them.

The sentence of the court, that Bachman be confined in the state prison at San Quentin for a period of thirty-five years, had a stunning effect upon the prisoner, who is well educated, and once was employed in a higher occupation. He stared vacantly at the judge, with gaping mouth, and forgot to sit down until ordered by a deputy sheriff to do so. Then he sank back in his chair entirely overcome.

A Flippant Editorial.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The Examiner's leading editorial to-day, has the following to say of the killing at Yaquina, Oregon, Sunday: "An Oregon boy has killed a companion for answering in Sunday school a question upon which he himself failed. Such things are excessively annoying to a teacher with a holy zeal for his work. If the successful boy had killed the other the affair would not be so bad, but the survival of the unfittest is fatal to spiritual progress, in Sunday school or elsewhere. It seems to us that the reprehensible conduct of this envious pupil would afford a proper subject for discipline."

Personal and General Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Fred H. Rowe, of Oregon, is at the Palace.

THE BEEM MYSTERY.

A Note in the General's Wills Asks for an Investigation.

CHICAGO, May 9.—It is asserted to-night that the will of Gen. Martin Beem, whose mysterious death caused so much comment, contains a note commanding that if anything should happen to him an investigation should be made. The will was drawn up less than a week before his death. The probate clerk refuses inspection of the document at present.

A peculiar feature of the tragedy is the fact that if Gen. Beem was murdered, his life insurance can be collected by his sister in Alton, to whom it is payable, but if, as Mrs. Beem claims, he was not murdered at all, but committed suicide, his relatives stand no show for the money. The relatives appear to believe he was murdered, and are actively co-operating with the Chicago Union Veteran League in ferreting out the mystery.

IS IT TRUE?

An Alleged Plot of Negroes in Alabama to Massacre Whites.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 9.—Emerson Shepard, the negro who was fatally shot in a fight with the sheriff's posse last Thursday, before dying revealed an alleged plot of the leaders in the Lowndes county riot. He states that Friday last was the time appointed to massacre the whites. Meetings were held by lodges to raise money to purchase ammunition to kill the whites if they attempted to arrest the negroes. The principal negro engaged in the plot was Bob Robinson, the president of the meeting. Neil Mangum, secretary and treasurer of the lodge, was also deeply implicated. They claim to have large societies throughout the United States, who have resolved to avenge their fallen ones and protect their color in the future at all hazards. The negro claims that Lowndes, Crenshaw and Butler counties have the largest clubs and they are fully competent to do their duty. They state that they have endured the mistreatment of the whites long enough, and propose to put an end to it, or there will be bloodshed. All members of the lodge were notified by the leaders that if they failed to be present at the meeting Friday and do their duty in the proposed massacre of whites, they would be put to death. Forty-eight of the negroes engaged in the riot have been arrested and jailed. The sheriff's posse and state troops seem to have put an end to the trouble for the present, but another outbreak is liable to come sooner or later.

[illegible] AVERAGE CROP EXPECTED—THE FIRST PICKINGS DUE NEXT WEEK.

[illegible] a well-known resident of Mount [illegible] a choice spot for strawberry culture, [illegible] answer to a reporter's inquiry yesterday: [illegible] think we will be able to deliver fine strawberries, ripe to the core, in the Portland [illegible] one week from to-day. Last Sunday I thought our earliest berries would be ripe late this week. The weather then [illegible] warm. Monday the sun shone hot, [illegible] too hot for the fruit; yesterday was [illegible] erate and to-day is cool and cloudy. [illegible] weather is far better than a continuance of hot days. It will give us larger, perfect berries. I should think that three or [illegible] days of sunshine will give you Portland [illegible] ones good ones."

[illegible] the crop will not be large; just about [illegible] average. The cold weather hurt the [illegible] some, but I have got to hear of a [illegible] man on Mount Tabor who raises [illegible] berries that will not have at least a fair [illegible] I think the statement will hold good [illegible] entire east side, and for the splendid [illegible] on the north bank of the Columbia [illegible] neighborhood of Fisher's Landing and [illegible] Camas."

ROSEBURG SHUT OUT.

[illegible] Wm. V. Johnson, who has a fruit farm [illegible] Roseburg, has been marketing strawberries for about a week. He was ready to [illegible] shipment to this city last Saturday, [illegible] did not do so as the price was not satisfactory. He is finding a market nearer home [illegible] higher prices than berries from the Sacramento valley are selling here. Mr. Johnson's idea in starting in the strawberry business at Roseburg several years since was [illegible] he could get berries to Portland two [illegible] or so earlier than the gardeners [illegible] this vicinity. Railroad connection [illegible] California had not been made [illegible] and the completion seemed [illegible] off that he did not make any calculation on competing with the Sacramento valley. His scheme was hardly a success, as he [illegible] been able to get into this market ahead [illegible] own gardeners only two or three times, [illegible] then only a few days ahead.

VIEWS OF DEALERS.

[illegible] WHICH WILL INTEREST ALIKE GROWERS AND CONSUMERS.

[illegible] OREGONIAN reporter interviewed the [illegible] fruit dealers on the strawberry question and found ready answers to his inquiries:

[illegible] H. E. Battin said: "I think the yield [illegible] not be more than one-half of a good, full [illegible] Last year the crop was rather a light [illegible] not more than one-half of preceding [illegible] I think I am warranted in saying [illegible] within a circuit of twenty miles of this [illegible] not less than nineteen-twentieths of all [illegible] crop is produced, that is to say, the shipping supply. Some come from Roseburg and [illegible] portions of Southern Oregon, a very [illegible] from Salem and other points in the Willamette valley. I think that the first Oregon berries in this market will bring probably [illegible] cents per pound. That will be a reasonable figure under all the circumstances. A [illegible] many patches have been badly damaged or killed during the winter. I have a [illegible] many killed on my place, so that I [illegible] plow the vines all up and set out new [illegible]

[illegible] less than two tons are received here [illegible] from California by rail. I have a [illegible] order myself with a Sacramento [illegible] to have a ton (gross) shipped me daily [illegible] further notice. Other dealers in Portland are no doubt receiving as much more in [illegible] aggregate. Even with this quantity we [illegible] scarcely supply the local market. More [illegible] one-half of all the berries that are [illegible] over the Oregon & California come [illegible] to Portland. In ten days we should [illegible] all the Oregon berries we want. [illegible] will probably get a small quantity by the [illegible] of this week, and more by the middle of [illegible] but within two weeks from date, if the [illegible] is at all favorable, there will be any [illegible]

[illegible] would like to say right here, that the outlook for a splendid, abundant crop of [illegible] very flattering. Our outside trade [illegible] depend much upon the crop beyond the [illegible] mountains, and how early the shippers [illegible] sending supplies away. Last [illegible] they cut into our trade very largely. If [illegible] shippers catch the Idaho and Montana [illegible] before we do they generally hold it all [illegible]

[illegible] Levy said: As near as we can ascertain there will probably be about a two thirds [illegible] as compared with a good fair yield of [illegible] years. A great many vines were [illegible] last winter. I think we will have [illegible] sufficient to meet all demands of the [illegible] market, and much, probably, to export. [illegible] as is known there will be a fair crop [illegible] in Eastern Oregon and Washington territory. The crop in that section is [illegible] than in this valley. Already the crop [illegible] shipped from The Dalles and Walla [illegible] A Walla Walla purchaser has just [illegible] me to discontinue shipping him berries, as they have their own crop now. Probably not less than 90 per cent. of all the berries which are received in Portland (except those shipped from California) [illegible] produced in the vicinity of Portland and East Portland. Twenty cents [illegible] I think, will be a [illegible] figure for the first Oregon [illegible] brought into the market. Heretofore [illegible] of the crop has brought forty cents. [illegible] year if we get half that price it will [illegible] that can be reasonably expected. In [illegible] or two weeks the crop ought to be [illegible] in. The weather will have a great [illegible] to do with that. Last year large quantities of berries were shipped from east of [illegible] Cascades to Montana. In fact, the market was pretty well supplied from that region. That, of course, interferes with our [illegible] by cutting off a large proportion of [illegible] trade. If the shippers up there get the [illegible] of us again this season they will probably hold and supply the market as they did [illegible] year. If that is the case we will be confined mainly to the local market."

[illegible] H. Page said: "My present impression is, from all that I have been able to [illegible] that this year's crop will be much better than we have had for several years past. [illegible] a good many patches have been [illegible] killed. The weather has been very [illegible] for an abundant yield, and there [illegible] every reason to predict a fair average. As to our market, very much depends [illegible] circumstances. Around The Dalles a [illegible] many berries are successfully cultivated, also in the Walla Walla country and [illegible] other parts of Eastern Oregon and Washington territory. The country east of the Cascades will no doubt be able to supply [illegible] markets and will very probably, to a large extent, Idaho and Montana. That of course will greatly affect our [illegible] and will leave us with only the local [illegible] to supply. I think our market, with [illegible] general outlook, will be local. Prices [illegible] very probably be low—much below those [illegible] seasons. I mean particularly with [illegible] first Oregon berries which come in. [illegible] the first berries have brought 25 [illegible] per pound wholesale. This year [illegible] may consider themselves lucky [illegible] get 15 cents per pound. [illegible] is now supplying the market [illegible] first of the season, and they are [illegible] sold at about 12½ cents wholesale. This [illegible] of the early market will have much [illegible] on the price of the Oregon crop. [illegible] of high prices has about been [illegible] over a ton a day is being brought [illegible] by rail from San Francisco [illegible]

LONDON, May 9.—The Right Hon. Edward Stanhope, secretary of state for war, to-day received a deputation of member[illegible] ment, who presented an [illegible] ing the necessity of placing the country in a proper state of defense. In reply, the secretary declared there was no occasion for panic. At all the military ports and coaling stations, however, the work of strengthening the defenses was being carried on with renewed activity and at the leading mercantile ports an effort was being made to complete submarine mining defenses. Multifarious forces of regulars, militia and volunteers were about to be organized, and the government would be able to produce at short notice a field army sufficient to defend England, and primarily to protect London. The government appealed to parliament to assist in preparing to avert any danger that would threaten England. Stanhope's remarks were greeted with applause by the deputation.

they generally arrive in good salable condition. With fair weather the Oregon crop ought to be coming in lively. A great deal depends upon the weather. Bright, warm weather now, after the recent generous rains will bring them to maturity very rapidly. There will probably be a limited supply by the middle of next week. Multnomah county produces not less than from seventy-five to eighty per cent. of all the crop which supplies the home and outside markets. All this is raised within a radius of probably not more than ten miles of Portland. Western Oregon produces only a very small percentage of the surplus beyond home consumption.

Mr. Wm. Dunbar said: My opinion is that the crop this season will probably be about a fair average one, as compared with past years; that is, I mean, when we have had a good crop. I have not had a very good opportunity thus far to ascertain, for I have not talked with many berry raisers. And then it is rather early for many of those who extensively cultivate berries to come around. Berries are being shipped here in large quantities from California. Most of the supply comes from Sacramento. They are arriving by train every day and are sweet and fresh. When we get a cannery here it will be a great incentive to cultivate strawberries more extensively than now. A cannery at Sacramento, I notice, is paying five cents a pound for all the surplus crop, and in that way it is all utilized. Now if we had a canning establishment here we could work up all our surplus at a price that would pay the producer. Some years berries get down as low as 2½ cents and 3 cents per pound. If we had a cannery, probably all the surplus could be disposed of at 5 cents or certainly not lower than 4 cents. Our crop may be a little late this season. Much depends upon the weather. If conditions are favorable, berries ought to commence to come in rapidly within the next ten days. Within a week a good many will no doubt be in the market. It is safe to estimate that not less than 75 per cent. of all the berries which are shipped, and which supply this and the outside market, are raised within a radius of say eight or ten miles of Portland. Of course this does not include Eastern Oregon and Washington territory. Large quantities are raised and shipped from around The Dalles and all through the Walla Walla valley and other sections of the great Inland Empire. Some are raised in Southern Oregon, around Salem, Albany and in other sections of the Willamette valley, but comparatively a small proportion is shipped to Portland or elsewhere. Nearly all our local market is supplied from this county, and also a very large proportion of the berries shipped to other points. Thus far the season has been very propitious for both strawberries and cherries. A good many berry patches were killed last winter by the severe cold weather, but for all that I think the crop, comparatively speaking, will be very good—a good average at least.

"EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS."

HOME RAISED BERRIES IN THE DALLES AND WALLA WALLA MARKETS.

To complete the information, THE OREGONIAN yesterday telegraphed its correspondents at The Dalles and Walla Walla for reports of the crop. Their answers are subjoined:

WALLA WALLA, May 9.—The outlook for the strawberry and small fruit crop in the Walla Walla valley is excellent. Many large farms have been cut up into small tracts and are being cultivated to fruit by new-comers from Eastern states. Home raised strawberries are already in the market, and local dealers report the prospect good for heavy shipments this season to points along the line of the Northern Pacific and the interior. The shipments last year amounted to about fifty tons of strawberries, which, being shipped for the first time, surprised everyone by the excellence of flavor and large size. Prospects are excellent for every product, and Walla Walla is coming out grandly.

THE DALLES, May 9.—The strawberry crop is very backward, by reason of cold weather. The prospects are good for an average yield. Plants are in a healthy condition and the fruit is maturing nicely. Some few ripe ones are in the market, but the crop is not as forward as in former years. A great many plants are now being set out and all horticulturists are turning their attention to this product.

The peculiarities of our climate are very advantageous for the growth of delicate fruits and vegetables. Sandy soil with moisture produces abundantly near The Dalles. The season has not been as dry as in other portions of Eastern Oregon, and with a few warm days we expect to see an abundance on sale.

In conversation with fruit growers they express no fear of failure this season, and welcome the cool days as hopeful for the future. The product matures gradually and attains a better maturity than if ripened rapidly by excessive hot weather. The export trade will be good, and, with low price of freight, a good trade in strawberries may be expected. The season is too far advanced to experience frosts, and there is no discouraging feature.

THE RAILROAD TO SUNNYSIDE.

Question Raised as to the Cessation of Interments in Lone Fir Cemetery.

The Sunnyside Land Improvement Company have made arrangements with the Willamette Railway Company, who have the contract to build the railway to Sunnyside to put down thirty-one-pound steel rails instead of twenty-five-pound, as at first contracted for. This change was made necessary by the fact that it has been decided to run a steam motor on the line, and the heavy rails will make the road safer and enable better time to be made. The Willamette Railway Company will consider this as their main line and instead of transferring passengers at Fifth street, they will, as soon as the road begins to be well patronized, hitch the cars to the motor and whirl them out to Sunnyside in a jiffy.

Speaking of Sunnyside, an undertaker said there will soon be a town there and interments will soon have to stop in Lone Fir cemetery. The greater number of interments are now made in Riverview and it is only a question of time when they will close altogether at Lone Fir. Probably in years to come the bodies in both Lone Fir and St. Mary's will be removed, as they were not long since from the Jewish cemetery in South Portland. There will be two reasons for doing this. The first will be that the city will have completely surrounded these cemeteries and there will be a desire on the part of residents in the vicinity to have them removed and secondly the land will have become so valuable that a much more suitable place can be procured and fixed up in tasteful shape for a sum much less than what the cemetery plots will be worth.

A CHANGE OF BILL.

Roland Reed To-night in One of His Old Successes—Musical Features.

A highly entertained audience left the theater last night after witnessing the final performance of the "Woman Hater" by Mr. Roland Reed and his excellent company. To-night will be presented for the first time here Fred Marsden's farcical comedy of "Humbug" which Mr. Reed has played upwards of a thousand times throughout the United States and has met with universal endorsement. Incidental to the play Mr. Reed will introduce a number of new and taking songs, also his famous piano recitals and pocket edition of Erminie and Mikado. In the latter opera Mr. Reed was the original American Ko-Ko and according to the united New York press is still without an equal in the role.

The New York Herald says: "It is all humbug, and a very amusing 'Humbug' at that. It was seen for the first time by a New York audience, and a large one, at the Bijou opera house last night. Though the first act wearied a little at times, the last two kept those present in almost constant laughter, and the final curtain fell on the third and last act of a success. This was due not alone to Mr. Frederick Marsden's amusing farce comedy, but to the efforts of Mr. Roland Reed, who played in the piece all over the country, and the excellent company of comedians by which he was surrounded.

"The plot, with its multitude of comical cross purposes and unexpected misunderstandings, deals with the marriage of an adventurer and an adventuress, both people of infinite good nature, and the former of infinite resource. They are both found out in the end, and fall into each other's [illegible] as she really has money, everything is all right, though mutual confidence has been shattered by an earthquake of revelations. This is but natural, as everybody turns up—except the lady's late husband—who has anything important to reveal about either of them."

The action of "Humbug" is brisk, and the situations very funny, and the lines in greater part witty. In a certain way, the piece recalls "The Private Secretary," for the irascible father who returns from India in search of his son in the former, is but a counterpart of the uncle in search of his nephew in the latter.

As Bill Barts, alias Jack Luster, the husband, Mr. Reed was inimitable.

Mr. Reed introduced, early in the piece, the song "The Accent On." He gave later amusing songs at the piano, and a piano solo as encore. When another was demanded he said he would have given it if he had as much voice as he had collar.

At the close of the second act Mr. Reed and Miss Nettie sang the former's "Pocket Edition of the Mikado" with much success, and Mr. Reed, who was the first Koko seen here, was very amusing. They both had separate encores, and after they were through and the curtain was raised they sang a laughable plantation duet, which they were obliged to repeat. The company was excellent.

THE DRIVER HELD BLAMELESS.

Verdict of Accidental Death in the Case of the Smithson Child.

Coroner DeLin held an inquest yesterday over the body of Georgie Smithson, the fifteen-months-old child who was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a wagon loaded with rock Tuesday. The jury, after examining witnesses and deliberating, returned a verdict that the death was purely accidental, and no blame should be attached to the driver of the team, Nelson Fuller.

Testimony was given by H. C. Smithson, uncle of the child, Mrs. Lizzie Hall, to whose care the child had been confided, Mrs. Mary Kutzschan, Arthur H. Kutzschan and Edward Endler. No facts which add to the full report in yesterday's OREGONIAN were developed. Those who were eye witnesses of the accident testified that Fuller had done all in his power to check the team and avert the accident, and they did not consider him to blame at all.

Fuller is still in jail. His case was not called up in the police court yesterday. Mr. Smithson called at THE OREGONIAN office last night to learn the verdict of the coroner's jury. He said he did not desire to prosecute Fuller, who seemed to be blameless according to the evidence. He censured Fuller, however, for not being able to see his child, who must have started to cross the street when the team was 200 feet away.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST DUST.

The Street Sprinkling Department Ready to Move Next Week.

The two new sprinkling wagons ordered by the city will be finished Saturday, and the city will then have eight wagons all in good order. There are twenty-five horses in the city stables, and new harness is being got ready for the three new spans bought the other day which will also be completed Saturday night. The whole outfit of sprinklers will be in working order on Monday if it don't rain, and the dust will stand no show at all. It is expected that with this "plant" there will be no need of running sprinklers at night, but if it should be necessary to do so, Superintendent Matthews says there is a team which can be used for this purpose.

One of the new sprinklers will be used at the north end of the city and the other at the south end, covering the district beyond the bridge, the people of which district have hardly had their share of sprinkling so far. The new stand pipes for filling the sprinklers will be put up as soon as the gates arrive. It was necessary to send clear to Boston for them, and this has delayed the work. Taken on the whole, the prospects in regard to less dust this summer seem rather cheerful.

COURT RULES EXPLAINED.

Judge Shattuck Puts an Official Construction on Disputed Points.

Of late some attorneys have misconstrued the rules of department No. 1, state circuit court, and they have been considerably inconvenienced thereby. Yesterday Judge Shattuck put the following official construction on the rules, and the attorneys will act accordingly:

The rules provide among other things that Saturdays shall be devoted to hearing motions and setting cases for trial.

Rule No. 13 provides for a trial calendar, on which the clerk is to enter all cases at issue on allegations of fact upon the oral application of either party.

Rule No. 14 provides that causes on the trial calendar are to be called and set for trial or otherwise disposed of in their order, unless taken out of their order by consent of parties, or on three days' notice.

The court holds upon these rules that (except when a case is to be called up out of its order) the rules themselves are standing notice to the bar that all cases at issue are on the calendar and that on Saturday of each week they will be set for trial whether parties are present or not.

AGRICULTURAL MATTERS.

Topics of Interest to the Oregon Agriculturist.

The Season and its Prospects—The Early Spring—Gardens in May—Planting of Corn and Other Matters.

There has been a clearing up and a change of wind to the north, and it occurred within twenty-four hours of the last quarter of the moon. So the wise ones, who go by the moon's phases, believe that we are to have dry weather through May. A year ago the rains ceased punctually on the arrival of the last quarter in May, and commenced punctually on the day of the last quarter in November. An old Oregonian, who has watched the phases of the moon in connection with the weather, says that for almost forty years he has noticed that the last quarter indicated the weather for the full month.

Western Oregon and Washington have had beautiful spring weather, with enough rain to answer all purposes for a month to come, as very heavy rains fell the past week. Spring crops look well and fall sown grain is in as good condition as heart could wish. Everything connected with farm operations is thriving, and there will be splendid crops if farmers can have a few seasonable showers in May and June. The general expression from people from all parts of the country west of the Cascades, is that crop prospects never were better. They certainly are very fine and farmers all seem contented.

East of the Cascades there has not been sufficient rainfall to bring crops to a favorable stage, and spring grain in many sections has not come up. A gentleman just returned from Heppner says the crop prospects where he traveled are not satisfactory. There is a chance for things to do well if rains come in good time, but the recent rain that blessed Western Oregon had no effect there. They were offering 8 cents per pound for wool at Arlington, and this fact, with the want of rain, has a discouraging tendency. Should rain come to take care of the crops the price of wool will not worry them much, as there is room for that to improve.

It is hardly possible that California can have even a half crop of grain on land not irrigated; and it is possible the fruit crop may feel the want of rain to some extent. Their yield of fruit must suffer somewhat, both in quality and quantity; while Oregon will undoubtedly harvest the largest and finest crop of fruit ever known in the state. Our rains have wound up for the present, and the wind has changed without bringing any touch of frost. It really seems as if we are to realize a year of immense production for the few orchards bearing. If so, fruitgrowing will be greatly encouraged, and many more orchards will be planted out.

EARLY SPRINGS.

The present season is rather earlier than common and is at least three weeks earlier than the two years that went before it. Three years ago there was literally no March and all things were a month beforehand through the spring and summer. Occasionally there have been years when strawberries have bloomed and ripened in the last days of April, but they usually come by the middle of May. On the 29th of last month a gentleman who was taking a walk in the country picked a strawberry. That was very early, indeed, for the wild berry to show its red coat. Fruit is not perhaps as far advanced as it was in 1885, but it lacks but little of it, and it is safe to expect cherries in the early days of June, perhaps the first. Grass is growing finely; all the pastures are thriving, and so are the stock that run on them. The meadows and the grain fields are very luxuriant, and in all respects an early springtime brings pleasant proof that this region is highly favored. It is safe to venture the assertion that no state lying in this latitude, or five degrees south of it, can show as beautiful a springtime and as luxuriant a growth of all crops as does the state of Oregon in this favored year A. D. 1888.

GARDEN WORK IN MAY.

May is the month when the garden is made by careful work or ruined by neglect. So much domestic comfort depends on the success of the garden that a family cannot afford to lose the luxuries and necessaries that a good garden can give, for want of careful management and skilled labor. The rarer the crop and the more useful and necessary it may be, the more certain it will be that the insect world attacks it and different evils affect it. An amateur gardener, whose home spot always produces good things, complains of a new worm at work. This is a black-headed grub, with a white, tapering body, of nearly the size of a cut worm, though scarcely so large, that cuts off cabbages and tomatoes. It is only found by the small pieces it tries to drag into its hole. Perhaps somebody will identify this ravenous pest and tell how to dispose of it. To sprinkle the plants with sulphur, or Paris green, or London purple may protect them.

Now is the time to watch for insect pests and to cultivate the garden in all its branches. May, beautiful month of May, will work wonders for you if you work reasonably for yourself. Everything in the garden will grow finely if cultivated. The hoe and the small plow, or double shovel, stirring the ground and bringing moisture to the surface, will assist nature prodigiously during May, and if the first day of June finds the weeds killed with the hoe they will not come later to do much harm. The garden depends on the farmer to work in May and aid natural forces do their kindly work. Don't fail then to assist nature all you can, and if you keep the soil loose and moist, and cut down the weeds, all the crops will certainly thrive.

PLANT CORN.

It is safe enough to plant corn now, and has been since the middle of April, though last year there were some frosts on the 11th and 12th of May. Many a piece of wheat land that is now plowed for a summer fallow can be planted to corn, and whatever value the corn crop can give, there will be more than compensation by increased crops to follow the corn crop. THE OREGONIAN has dwelt often of late on this subject of growing a crop of some kind rather than to have a dry and barren summer fallow. Corn, or potatoes, or rape will pay well as a crop and the harvest of the wheat crop following it will be much better than if there had been a dry and barren fallow. To let the land lay loose and burning to the hot sun is not economy. It may rest somewhat, and become measurably clean of weeds, but the succeeding crop will be much heavier and much better quality following any of the crops named above. The corn and potatoes furnish something for a farmer to fatten his hogs on. The rape gives them summer feed. Keep them growing all summer on rape; feed them boiled potatoes, and a bushel of oats to ten of potatoes steamed together, and finish with a bushel or two of corn, and you make as good pork as can possibly be made that costs comparatively nothing. All this has been repeatedly shown and refutes the slander that "Oregon can't make pork to compete with Missouri, Illinois or Iowa." This state can make pork in this way cheaper than it can be made in those states and the quality of the very best. Here is a leak to be stopped that the farmers of this region can stop if they choose to do. It applies to farmers in all the Pacific Northwest. There is no excuse for the bringing of half a million dollars worth of pork, hams and lard to our section from the Western states, and it should be stopped by the enterprise of home producers.

HOW TO MAKE LAND HOLD MOISTURE.

A reader, who has an upland farm not far from Portland, asks how he can grow blackberries there. The fact is, the blackberry is a native of damp soils and will not thrive on upland, unless the conditions are supplied to create the needed moisture. The gentleman alluded to has an idea to use salt, because salt attracts dampness; but it looks as if by the time he used enough salt to answer the purpose it would replace the soil. There is no way apparent to make hill-land moist, save to cultivate deeply and manure well. The last attracts moisture in a natural way, and so does deep tillage. Plow deep and underdrain well and you have moisture.

In Cole's New Agriculture, that was reviewed some months ago in THE OREGONIAN, he shows by his system of underdraining that it also affords irrigation, and it is probable that the upland referred to would derive all the benefit possible from thorough underdraining of that sort. At the request of several, THE OREGONIAN will repeat some of the facts shown in Cole's New Agriculture. The ground improved was the poorest of coarse rocky soil, with a hard-pan under it impervious to water. The soil was so poor that one after another had given up the attempt to cultivate it. The last effort was made by plowing well and putting on a good coat of barn yard manure, yet, after good cultivation, the crop was but thirty bushels of potatoes to the acre.

Mr. Cole studied the subject and determined to improve the land after his own ideas of thorough cultivation. He had the ground worked eighteen inches deep and much of the coarse broken rock was taken out. Then he had it underdrained by digging ditches two feet wide and four or five feet deep. The land was a hillside and the ditches were parallel with the hill and forty or fifty feet apart, with overflow ditches connecting them that were not so deep. The main ditches were filled up part way with coarse rock laid in loose, covered about eighteen inches below the surface with flat stones on which vines, brush or straw were laid to thatch the drains. By this means the large ditches became reservoirs to hold the surplus water that the shallow connecting drains could not reach. In case of heavy rains these ditches all filled and the shallower cross drains carried off the surplus water. The ground would be drained and dry for two feet or thirty inches deep and if a dry spell came the surplus water that was retained in the lower part of the main ditches would be drawn to the surface by capillary attraction. Mr. Cole claims for his system that it effects all necessary drainage and answers also as a system of irrigation when a dry spell comes. If the drouth is prolonged and the reserve of water is exhausted, the action of the air in penetrating the subsoil introduces moisture from the atmosphere that soon slacks a clayey hard-pan and makes it crumble and become firm soil. After this system of ditching and aeration had been established another crop of potatoes was grown with the same quantity of manure used, and the crop increased from thirty to 1900 bushels to the acre. The whole average of crops after this improvement was made was immense, and as many have doubted that such results were achieved, many times committees have been appointed to investigate and the result has always been to fully sustain Cole's assertions.

Before the land was thus ditched and cleared of stones and wood found under its surface there was a great deal of fungus growth and it was infested with cut worms and wire worms. All these disappeared when the ground was thus put in order. There was no fungus, and no worms troubled. With this example so thoroughly established and proved, there is no room to doubt the value of thorough drainage to many classes of lands.

BIDS FOR THE PORTLAND HOSPITAL.

One Contractor Nearly $10,000 Lower Than the Others—Talk Among Them.

Bids for the construction of the eastern portion of the Portland hospital (to be built by the Willamette University) comprising about two-thirds of the entire building, were opened yesterday afternoon at the office of Wm. Stokes, architect. Over twenty persons, contractors, painters and plumbers were present, all deeply interested in the proceedings. Several of them remarked to a reporter, who dropped in, that the idea of publishing the bids in THE OREGONIAN was a good one, as now they were not obliged to stay and hear the bids read, but could find out all about the matter before breakfast next morning.

"Yes," said another, "it is very good for all but the men who make the highest bids. People reading the bids are apt to imagine that these persons charge too much."

The bids opened, covering the whole work, were as follows:

Hobkirk & McKenzie	$48,560
J. E. Smith	55,704
Daniel Campbell	53,000
John Robertson	49,870
Walker & Son	51,000
Langford & Bridges	54,190
Lewis & Banston	40,000

Mr. Lewis explained why his bid was so much lower than the others by saying that they had been misled as to the cost of the mill work. Some had figured it at $20,000 but he had figured it at $9000. Mr. Lewis used to be in the "mill" business himself and should be competent to judge but as some of the contractors had taken estimates from several parties they are inclined to think that Mr. Lewis has miscalculated, "unless," as one of them remarked, "the mill men have organized a trust and are all standing in together." There were several bids for the plumbing separately, but as there were so many covering the entire work, these will probably not be considered. In view of the different styles in which tenders were submitted, some of them being indefinite it would seem that it would be a good plan for architects to furnish printed blanks, which the contractors could fill.

COMPLIMENTED THEIR LEADER.

Mr. Ralph W. Hoyt, the popular leader and instructor of the Marine band, was given a handsome gold-tipped, diamond-set, ebony baton last night, at the regular weekly rehearsal at the armory. The twenty members of the Marine band, which is to be hereafter known as the First Regiment Military band, have for a long time wanted to show by some fitting token their esteem for Mr. Hoyt as a man, and their appreciation of his efforts as their band leader. Having decided on a baton, none of them cared to make the presentation speech, so they arranged the matter in the following novel way:

During the rehearsal last night, at a preconcerted time, every instrument in the band began to emit the most frightful discord, and Mr. Hoyt, well nigh distracted, flew into as much of a passion as he has ever been known to do, and while waving his hands and stamping his feet, trying to make himself heard above the din, H. Hackeny as the president of the organization, went up to him and rapped him over the shoulder with the baton saying: "You deserve to be caned." Mr. Hoyt, as may naturally be supposed, was taken aback, and was at first unable to say anything at all. He however at length managed to express his surprise and delight and thanked his men in a few appropriate remarks. The baton is a beautiful thing and must have cost a great deal of money. It is of ebony, gold-mounted at either end. The head is inscribed with the following words: "Presented to Ralph W. Hoyt by the Marine band, May 9, 1888." A large diamond is set in the small end of the baton, and it will no doubt make many a sparkling arc of light over the devoted heads of his band in the future.

THEY STAYED OVER ONE DAY.

Two Illinois Capitalists who Found More in Portland Than They Expected.

Messrs. J. T. Fleming and C. W. Summers, of Fairfield, Illinois, came over from the Sound Tuesday after a careful survey of that section. They were prepared to leave for home yesterday but after some persuasion they concluded to investigate things hereabouts. From a gentleman who chaperoned them during the brief period they remained in the city it is learned that the opinions of the visitors had changed materially after seeing the metropolis and the suburbs and instead of carrying home an unsatisfactory impression of the Northwest gleaned from their first experience, they had made notes which when presented to the citizens of Fairfield through the local papers of that city, Portland will appear in a most favorable light.

The gentlemen are extensively engaged in pork packing, wholesale groceries and lumbering in the locality mentioned. The object of their visit to the Northwest was to invest if satisfactory arrangements could be made. It may be confidently expected that they will be heard from again.

American Medical Association.

CINCINNATI, May 9.—At this morning's session of the American Medical Association, the first business was the report of the committee upon the conduct of the Journal, a periodical published by the association. The committee reported that the paper is in good condition. It is proposed to increase the corps of editors, change the paper and dress of the magazine, and make other improvements. Several interesting papers were read.

NOTICE OF RECEIVER'S SALE—NOTICE IS hereby given that pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of the United States for the district of Oregon, entered April 21, 1888, in a cause therein pending wherein Albert G. Bogert et. al. are plaintiffs and Joseph Holladay, executor, substituted for Ben. Holladay, deceased, et al., are defendants, the undersigned, receiver therein, will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, in Portland, Multnomah county, Oregon, at the door of the county court house of said county, at 10 o'clock A. M. of Thursday, May 31, 1888, ten thousand, being all the shares of the capital stock of the Oregon Real Estate Company. The stock will be offered for sale in lots of five hundred shares each, and will be sold to the highest bidders respectively, upon this understanding and condition, to-wit: That after the stock has been bid off in lots as aforesaid the stock will be offered for sale in one lot of ten thousand shares, and will be sold to the highest bidder therefor, in case his bid for the stock as a whole exceeds the aggregate amount of the bids for the stock when offered in lots as aforesaid; but if the bid for the stock as a whole does not exceed the aggregate amount of the bids for the stock when offered in lots as aforesaid, then the stock will be declared sold to the respective bidders for the several lots of stock.
Dated Portland, Oregon, April 21, 1888.
G. G. GAMMANS, Receiver.

The property owned by the Oregon Real Estate Company, and which is represented by the stock of said company to be sold as above set forth, consists principally of about fourteen hundred lots, fifty by one hundred feet each, situated in the choicest residence portion of the city of East Portland. That part of the property adjacent to the eastern terminus of the new iron bridge between Portland and East Portland will soon be desirable for business purposes, while the high level land extending for a mile back from the river offers chances for homes that will be eagerly seized upon when the land is offered for sale in lots and blocks. A year ago three of the leading real estate dealers of Portland appraised this property at over a half million of dollars, and since then it has advanced considerably in value. This stock is to be sold to pay off $350,000 claims against the estate of Ben Holladay. 24a35

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 10.

CLEVELAND KNEW HIS MAN.

It now appears that Cleveland knew his man when he appointed Melville W. Fuller chief justice of the supreme court. He wanted a congenial companion for Mr. Justice Lamar, who in a public speech at Richmond, Va., in June, 1861, denounced Lincoln as a blood-thirsty buffoon; and he has found him in Fuller, whose "war record" has been unearthed and proves him to have been, not a rebellious blackguard like Lamar, not a foul-mouthed copperhead like Minister Phelps, but nevertheless a poisonous copperhead of the Seymour sort, in his devotion to what is called the Jeffersonian construction of the constitution. When the war broke out Fuller was a member of the Illinois state legislature. The democrats, who controlled the lower house of the legislature in 1862, were greatly incensed against President Lincoln because of his war policy and emancipation proclamation and were very solicitous for peace, declaring in some resolutions for which Mr. Fuller voted, that the war was being waged against slavery in direct contradiction of the declarations made by Lincoln in his inaugural. These resolutions declared that the Illinois troops were fighting for a cause for which they had not enlisted, and that it was wicked to ask men to enroll themselves in the army for the purpose of putting down the rebellion and then make them fight for the freedom of the slaves. The men with whom Mr. Fuller then voted insisted that the war should not be waged to free the blacks. On January 8th, 1863, the anniversary of Jackson's victory, Mr. Fuller introduced the following resolution:

> Resolved, That we are profoundly convinced of the truth of the declaration of General Jackson, in his farewell address, that the constitution cannot be maintained nor the Union preserved in opposition to public feeling by the mere exertion of coercive powers of the government. The foundations must be laid in the affections of the people, in the security it gives to life, liberty and property in every part of the country—the fraternal attachment which the citizens of several states bear to one another as members of one political family materially contributing to promote the happiness of each other.

It was carried, and the same day Mr. O'Brien offered a series of resolutions declaring that "the administration had broken its faith, violated its pledges, deceived the people, betrayed the army and almost succeeded in making the restoration of the Union a hopeless impossibility;" that the proclamations of September 22, 1862, and January 1, 1863, proposing to give freedom to the slaves of the Southern states were alike "unconstitutional, contrary to the usages of civilized warfare and calculated to bring shame, disgrace and infamy upon the hitherto uninsulted flag of the republic." Mr. Brentano moved the following substitute:

> Resolved, That the proclamation issued by Abraham Lincoln, president of the United States, on the 22d of September, 1862, and the supplementary proclamation issued on the 1st of January, 1863, will inaugurate a most important epoch in American history; that this proclamation, when rigidly enforced, will deprive the rebels of their principal element in support of this infamous rebellion; that it aims a blow at the very heart of the rebellion, and will destroy its unholy cause.
> Resolved, That we heartily endorse this proclamation, that we urge its rigid enforcement and will use our utmost endeavors to sustain it.

Mr. Fuller voted to lay this substitute upon the table, and the resolutions of O'Brien were passed, Mr. Fuller voting for them. On February 5, 1863, the majority of the house committee on federal relations reported a series of resolutions denunciatory of the administration and the conduct of the war. A minority report from the same committee was submitted the next day expressing confidence in President Lincoln and approving his course, and both reports were made the special order for February 12. At that time the majority resolutions were adopted and the minority report voted down, Mr. Fuller voting for the majority resolutions.

No wonder Fuller went out of politics and stayed out. Under this record there has been no time since the war when Fuller could have risen to any political trust in Illinois of consequence any more than Phelps could in Vermont. Fuller was a copperhead, and copperheads have been counted out in Illinois since Lee's surrender. Mr. Fuller, New England born and bred, was of the same quality of copperhead as was New Hampshire's recreant son, Franklin Pierce, who, smooth, plausible, cold, aristocratic, faithless, sends an odious memory down the ages of having been the last eminent northern man that spat on his New England training for freedom, and labored until the dying day of his political life to rivet the galling chain tighter on the neck of the slave. President or private man, his hand and his heart were always with the slavocracy of the South. Among the records of the war is his awful letter to Jeff Davis in 1861, in which he said: "If through the madness of Northern abolitionists the dire calamity of the disruption of the Union must come, the fighting will not be along Mason and Dixon's line merely. It will be within our own borders, in our own streets, between the two classes of citizens to whom I have referred. Those who defy law and scout constitutional obligations will, if we ever reach the arbitrament of arms, find occupation enough at home."

Fernando Wood of New York, also wrote a letter praying for and anticipating the day when grass would grow on the crowded streets of our Northern Cities. To this polished, cultivated Pierce clique of copperheads belonged Geo. H. Pendleton of Ohio, Thomas H. Seymour of Connecticut, Judge Woodward of Pennsylvania, Fernando Wood, Samuel J. Tilden and Charles O'Conor of New York, Judge B. F. Thomas of Massachusetts, Tom Hendricks of Indiana, Judge Ryan of Wisconsin, Bion Bradbury of Maine, E. J. Phelps of Vermont, and now according to the record Melville W. Fuller of Illinois. Cleveland knew his man. These facts concerning the war record of Fuller are published in the New York Herald, an earnest supporter of Cleveland's administration. This record ought to prevent his confirmation.

A GLORIOUS PAGE IN THE HISTORY OF A GREAT CHURCH.

The representatives of the Methodist Episcopal church in the United States are now in session in general conference at New York city.

One hundred and twenty-two years ago Philip Embury preached to an audience of five persons in New York city, the first Methodist sermon ever delivered in America. To-day the Methodist Episcopal church numbers over 2,000,000 of members and including the Methodist church South and the Methodist Protestant church, the total number of Methodists in the United States in more than 4,500,000.

Philip Embury, who preached the first Methodist sermon in America, was born in Ireland of German parents. He was a carpenter by trade and after he emigrated to America became a "backslider," but was roused to the resumption of his duty as a preacher by the stern reproaches of Barbara Heck, his countrywoman, who was so able and aggressive an evangelist that she earned the name of the "Mother of Methodism in America." Embury first preached in a loft in William street, but in two years his congregation built the first Methodist church in America, on the south side of John street, between William and Nassau, Embury doing most of the carpenter work with his own hands, and upon this spot to-day stands a Methodist church. Embury died in 1775, and a monument to his memory stands in the little cemetery at Cambridge, New York.

The first Methodist conference in America assembled in 1773, and included only ten preachers representing a little over 1100 people. The Methodist conference to-day meets in the Metropolitan Opera house, but the first conference would have refused to assemble in a building dedicated to operatic music and the artistic movements of the ballet dancer.

Forty-four years ago was the last meeting of the general conference in New York city, and it was a memorable session, for it was at this conference, in 1844, that the discussion arose between the churches of the North and the South on the question of slavery. Bishop James O. Andrew had acquired property in slaves after his ordination, and the conference, after a debate of extraordinary eloquence, declared that the bishop should lay down his sacred office until he ceased to be a slaveholder. The conference adjourned and the church at once split in two. The year following, the Methodist Episcopal churches of the South formed an organization of their own, and ever since, though united in theology, the two bodies have been under distinct discipline and government.

This division of the Methodist church on the question of human slavery is the grandest chapter in the whole church history of America. When the Methodist church divided on the slavery question it was far in advance of every other church in America, and the influence of its action in swelling the anti-slavery ranks was immense. The courage of the attitude of the church becomes apparent when we remember that the Congregational church in New England, the Protestant Episcopal church and even the Unitarian denomination at that date were not only non-aggressive and silent, but in conspicuous cases were apologists and not seldom defenders of human slavery. Rev. Dr. Nathan Lord, Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Adams, Rev. Dr. Orville Dewey, Rev. Hubbard Winslow, Rev. Dr. Francis Hawks, Rev. Dr. Vinton, Bishop John Henry Hopkins, Rev. Dr. Lyman Beecher, Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon and Rev. Edward Everett are names of Northern clergymen who made themselves infamous by their subserviency to the slave power and their denunciation of anti-slavery agitation.

Before Webster defended the fugitive slave law and fully committed himself to the compromise measures of 1850 he corresponded with Prof. Stuart, the famous theologian of Andover seminary and other eminent divines to ascertain how far the religious sentiment of the North would sustain him in the position he was about to assume, and even in 1850 outside of the Methodist church North and the Baptist church which had also divided on the slavery question, Prof. Stuart was able to promise Webster the support of the Northern pulpit. The Princeton Review, the organ of a Congregational theological school, defended slavery from the bible against the teachings of the abolitionists, and among its theological defenders was no less a man that Rev. Dr. Francis Wayland. In 1829 Garrison delivered an address in the Park-street church, Boston, in which he said "I call upon the ambassadors of Christ everywhere to make known this proclamation: 'Thus saith the Lord God of the Africans, let this people go that they may serve me.' I ask them to proclaim 'liberty to the captive and the opening of the prison to them that are bound.' I call on the churches of the living God to lead in this great enterprise." In 1844 the Methodist church was the first to answer this appeal and John Quincy Adams said at the time when the Methodist church broke asunder that other men might be more startled by the eclat of political success, but nothing in his opinion promised more good or showed more clearly the real strength of the anti-slavery movement than that momentous event, and Henry Clay, in an interview with Rev. Dr. Hill of Louisville, Ky., attached the same importance to the ecclesiastical influence of this division of the Methodist and Baptist churches on the slavery question. It is the most glorious page in the brilliant religious history of the greatest church in America.

Michigan, which formerly gave large republican majorities, was made a close state by the action of the greenback party, which "fused" with the democracy. There are signs, however, that the fusion is now at an end. Ex-Congressman Field, of that state, who is chairman of the greenback state committee, will oppose further fusion, because he is a protectionist. "I believe," he says, "that the markets of the country belong to the labor of the country. I will never consent to the scheme now being advocated to snatch labor out of the hands of the poor in our own country in order to enrich the industries of foreign lands. In saying this I speak in the full consciousness that I am representing the views of the major part of the greenback party. Entertaining as I do strong protection views, I could not, without doing violence to my conscience, be a party to any movement looking to the re-election of Grover Cleveland to the presidency. I would rather see a smoked ham in the presidential chair than the present incumbent." He declares there is no probability of a fusion of the greenbackers and democrats. The greenback vote of the state is about 40,000.

Judge Slagle of the Allegheny (Pa) court recently granted an injunction against certain Knights of Labor who had ordered and attempted to maintain a boycott of a laundry establishment in that county. Bruce Brothers had located at Wilkinburg, near Pittsburg, and conducted a laundry employing about 135 persons. A dispute between the employers and some of their employes, resulted in the Knights of Labor taking up the cause of the dissatisfied employes, and failing to get the dispute adjusted, they issued flaring circulars saying: "Boycott Brace Bros.," and had men follow the wagons of the laundry in buggies flaunting banners with the inscription "Boycott Brace Bros." Men were posted in front of the places of business of those who refused to boycott the laundry, distributing offensive circulars and gathering disorderly crowds. The business of Brace Bros. was seriously injured by the violence of the boycotters and they appeal to the court for an injunction to restrain the interference with their business. Judge Slagle declared in his opinion all such efforts to embarrass business as utterly lawless.

The new candidate for the chief justiceship is not so entirely unknown, after all. The Portland (Maine) Argus, in its notice of his nomination, is able to recall the fact that he reported the proceedings of the Maine legislature in 1856 for the Augusta Age. At the same time Blaine was legislative reporter for the Kenebec Journal. Fuller is said to be a man of considerable talents, and probably would have been able to obtain a career of some distinction long ago had not the infamy of his political principles kept him during all his life in deserved obscurity.

It is preached in Oregon that "protection doesn't protect." The thing to do, then, is to persuade the Southern planter and the Eastern manufacturer of this great truth. Both these individuals think protection does protect, and hence they hold on to protection for their own products, while they get the democratic party to recommend free trade for our products.

Excess of rain has stopped the sowing of wheat in Minnesota and Dakota, and the ground may not be dry enough till too late for sowing.

The New York World says that "Donnelly's cryptogram is a cipher in a sense that he does not yet realize."

CHINA AND THE PACIFIC COAST.

The ratification of the Chinese treaty by the senate ought to put, and probably will put to rest for a long time to come, the political spook of Chinese immigration on this coast. We have called it a political spook. It is little more than that among men of intelligence and candor, who are not looking for a chance to grind the dull ax of demagogy. No stronger proof of the average ignorance and bigotry of the persons who compose the controlling forces of the Oregon democracy could be furnished than the official denunciation of Thomas N. Strong for having ventured to speak as follows about the Chinese:

> There are no people on earth to-day, from the lowest to the highest, more happily and comfortably situated than the people of Oregon, and much of that comfort and happiness is the direct result of the presence and patient work of the Chinese laborers we have had at our disposal. They are here in response to the imperative needs of this coast, and when that need ceases they will depart with it.

There is not an intelligent, candid man in Oregon that does not know that Mr. Strong speaks the exact truth. Without Chinese labor Oregon would be badly off to-day, for she has no class of labor at hand that is ready and willing to take their place. The anti-Chinese voters and agitators are chiefly jawsmiths, gamblers and other "subterranean savages of civilization," who scorn the work the Chinaman willingly accepts. As Mr. Strong says, when the imperative need of Chinese labor ceases it will disappear as rapidly as it came; and yet for this common sense view of the Chinese question, which is confessed to be the exact truth by all men of candor and intelligence, the Oregon democracy have denounced Mr. Strong as solemnly as if he had declared in favor of reviving by law the Spanish inquisition, the imprisonment for debt or cropping the ears for theft.

A strong proof that the Chinese question is largely a political spook that is made to walk abroad and annually cry "Boo!" to the geese that compose the ignorant and bigoted classes on this coast is the indifference of the United States authorities to the enforcement of our restriction acts, which are ample to prevent any appreciable increase in Chinese immigration. Of course, if both parties were really in earnest on this subject, the restriction acts would not be loosely administered by both republican and democratic administrations.

However, the Chinese treaty that has just been ratified leaves the Pacific coast with no further cause of complaint against the Chinese government, that evidently is as hostile to the immigration as any anti-Chinese agitator on this coast. With this treaty and our federal restriction acts Chinese immigration not only cannot increase, but must rapidly dwindle in the future. England can, if she chooses, seal up the port of Hong Kong, but when did England ever consent to throw away a traffic that put a dollar in her pocket? Nothing, therefore, can be expected of England until English public opinion demands what America could only ask as a favor.

The chief cause for congratulation to the Pacific coast on the ratification of the Chinese treaty is that it leaves the United States on friendly terms with the government of China. This may not seem to-day a matter of much practical consequence, but for the future of the Pacific coast it is a fact of far reaching importance. At the recent Grant birthday banquet in Boston Hon. George S. Boutwell, ex-secretary of the treasury, said:

> Grant had not the opportunity in his public life to do what was in his mind, but an act which is to have a very important influence upon the fortunes of this country, the acquisition of a protecting power over the Hawaiian islands, a group centrally situated in the Pacific ocean, was consummated during his administration. He believed the country should turn its face westward. Europe was already occupied by a population quite equal to its capacity, and was for the future of but little consequence to us. The people with whom he believed we should cultivate associations and alliances and establish commercial intercourse were the people south of us on this continent, and the people west of us on the Asiatic continent, where 100,000,000 inhabitants were waiting to enjoy commercial and social, and, in time, political intercourse with us. To those countries his eyes were turned, and although during his public life he had no opportunity for developing those ideas, and certainly only a transient opportunity to seize upon even the first preliminary steps to this great future, still he believed in the capacity of this country to take a central position in the affairs of the world, and not by arms, for he was a man of peace, but by force of civilization, leading up to commercial intercourse.

Gen. Grant's capacious mind was absolutely practical and non-poetic, and wherever he traveled he was deeply interested in material things. As a young officer in Mexico he perceived the extraordinary richness of its natural resources, and he stored his extraordinary memory with a knowledge of its climate, soil, topographical features, etc., that made him an early prophet of its development under American commercial ideas and policy. This same eye for the commercial opportunities of America was at the bottom of his urgent message on the subject of San Domingo. Grant saw that with the rapid growth of America a naval and coaling station would eventually become invaluable in the West Indies. For the same reason he always advocated the adoption of England's policy of subsidizing steamship lines to open and develop new fields of trade, and always insisted that this policy early adopted on the part of our government would have secured to us a vast South American trade which goes chiefly to England. Our Pacific seaboard was within easy reach of Mexico, Central America, and the whole west coast of South America from New Grenada to Chili, and our Atlantic seaboard was nearer Brazil, and the Argentine Republic than was England; and yet the English had captured the great trade of South America largely as Grant believed because of the failure of our government to adopt England's policy of subsidizing steamship lines to South American ports and push our natural advantages as a commercial competitor. When Grant visited the Asiatic continent he was admitted to the confidence of the ablest statesmen of China and Japan and he saw clearly that at some not far distant day not only the whole Chinese wall of the commercial exclusion and non-intercourse policy would tumble into ruin, but that the social habits of the Mongolians in diet, dress and the arts of civilized life would become Europeanized. With this change the trade of the civilized world with China and Japan would be enormously increased, and he believed it to be sound policy for our government to cultivate rather than check its rising influence and popularity with the Pacific seaboard of Asia. The Pacific seaboard of the United States, Grant believed, ought some day to be able, under a wise, far-reaching federal policy, to clutch a very large portion of the trade of China, which even to-day is more valuable than the whole of our South American trade. Bred a soldier, spending eleven years of his first manhood in the army, and leaving it without capital to embark in commercial life, and possibly without the natural instinct of a sharp trader, Grant nevertheless had a strong and capacious brain for practical affairs and business on a large scale. He was not a man for small details, but he had an unerring eye for great opportunities, whether in war or peace, and on his return from his foreign tour. With a mind so enlarged by travel and so enriched by facts that he was probably the best informed man in America in present knowledge of the world, he was never weary until the day of his death of predicting that the Pacific seaboard would some day find in the Asiatic trade a mine of wealth equal to that our Atlantic seaboard finds in Europe.

Believing that Grant was correct in his prognosis of the future, we are glad that the Chinese treaty is so drawn that it leaves the United States on terms of cordial amity with China. Fifty years from to-day China, in war will be a powerful foe, in peace, a valuable customer to the commercial nation that has the wit and the tact to secure her trade.

SECTIONAL AND PARTISAN.

Talking about "war taxes," look at the tax on rice. Before the war the duty on rice was, on the average, half a cent a pound. The present duty is two and one-fourth cents a pound, and the Mills bill, though it professes to reduce the duty to two cents, establishes a new classification which actually increases the duty. This is done by giving a new definition to uncleaned rice. The new bill changes the long accepted commercial definition, and excludes all rice which has the outer skin or husk loosened, and makes all such dutiable as cleaned rice. By this artful change all this class of rice, which heretofore has been admitted at a less rate of duty, is carried to the cleaned rice, which bears a higher rate, and this increases the duty on what has heretofore been admitted as uncleaned rice by 75 cents per 100 pounds.

Stated in another form, the duty on rice before the war was 15 per cent. ad valorem. At present it is 90 per cent. and under the Mills bill it will be 97½ per cent. The protective duty on rice, as well as the protective duty on sugar, is to be maintained as a favor to the Southern democracy, through this political, sectional and partisan bill.

The rice-growing states are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina. In 1878 the yield was 110,000,000 pounds; in 1886 it was 155,000,000 pounds, and the present year it will probably reach 170,000,000. From the rice-growing states every senator and every representative is a democrat, and one and all they have made it a condition of supporting the Mills bill that the high protective duty on rice should be continued; and further, they have demanded that the new classification above referred to should be adopted so as to give the rice planters even more protection than heretofore.

The Daily Bulletin, a trade journal of New York, shows that if the duty were reduced to what it was before the war, the rice planter could still make a good profit. At forty-four bushels to the acre, a low yield, he would net $22 per acre; at sixty bushels, the average yield, he would net $36 per acre, and at eighty bushels, not an unusual yield, he would net $48 per acre. Present profits are, of course, very much greater. "It is to be wondered," says the Bulletin, "whether some of our wheat growers would not like to be assured of equal results when they are acquainted with the fact that this cereal can be grown as cheaply as any other. Furthermore, whether they would not like to have netted what the rice planters did when prices have been, as often since the war, forty to 100 per cent. higher than now."

The way in which the "tariff reformers," falsely so-called, have treated this subject, well illustrates the insincerity, the unfairness, the partisanship, the sectionalism, of the Mills bill. "Down with the war tariff!" is their cry; and yet they take excellent care to keep the war tariff on the products of the democratic states of the South, upon whose continued political solidity they build all their partisan hopes and expectations.

A large sheep owner last year had part of his flocks in Montana and part just over the border in Dominion territory. He says he realized just eight cents more for his fleeces shorn in the United States than for those clipped in Canada, and the difference he attributes to the tariff. It is probable that this difference is too great to be accounted for by the tariff alone. Rates of transportation very likely had something to do with it. For, while the wool-grower of the United States does receive better prices than the wool-grower of Canada, the difference cannot be eight cents a pound, on the same quality of wool.

IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Harry Clayton, the barkeeper of the place at the corner of Fourth and B streets, accused by A. R. Johnson of the larceny of $60, was examined in the police court yesterday, and notwithstanding his alleged innocence of poker he was held to answer in the sum of $300. "Big Jim," his employer, started out to find bondsmen, and Clayton went to jail. Johnson was asked yesterday how much he would bet on three aces now, and he said "not a cent." "They do that old trick in Wisconsin," said he, "but not quite so slick." The police do not take much stock in Clayton's innocence, as a man who holds the stakes when a job is put up to rob another, and then hands the money over to the swindler, is not a very good or innocent man.

BALL PLAYERS WANT TO COME HERE.—Joe Calhoun, the baseball player, who recently returned from California, where he spent the winter trying to "find" the curves of visiting Eastern ball tossers, says there is considerable inquiry among the players regarding Oregon. Turke Burke, the well known pitcher whom the Detroits recently released for refusing point blank to surrender the "box" to Getzein has the Oregon fever badly. If he comes, Paul McCarthy, who has a splendid record as a catcher, will accompany him. James Mullee, who pitched here two years ago, hankers to return to Portland. Bentle, shortstop for the Los Angeles nine, is another who wants to come.

INSURANCE COMPANY ELECTION.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Columbia Fire and Marine Insurance Company was held last evening. The following board of directors were elected for the ensuing year: D. P. Thompson, John Donnerberg, A. H. Breyman, Geo. H. Williams, Walter F. Burrell, John A. Child, Asahel Bush, W. T. Wright, Frank Dekum, Jacob Wortman, John B. David, Samuel P. Sturges, James F. Watson, H. Thielsen, R. L. Durham, W. K. Smith, R. M. Wade, W. B. Honeyman, T. L. Charman, W. H. Walker, Geo. B. Markle, Chas. A. Alisky, I. W. Case, E. S. Kearney, Joseph E. Smith. The directors' meeting will be held on Monday the 14th inst., at the office of the company.

FIRE CISTERN TO BE ABANDONED.—The board of fire commissioners has decided to abandon the cistern in the angle where A and Vine streets meet. It is of no service now and has been used but once in four years. It was built when there were no hydraulic hydrants in town. There are cisterns close by on each side, one at Oak and First and one at B and First. They are seldom used now, as the firemen attach at once to the hydrants, and so avoid the delay of placing engines, putting down suction hose and making attachments. The foundation of the Skidmore fountain, bids for which will be opened to-day, extends about five feet into the space occupied by this cistern.

NATIVITY OF FOREIGN-BORN CITIZENS.—Almost every day the papers record the fact that some foreigner has filed with the county clerk his declaration of intention of becoming a citizen. This prompted a reader of THE OREGONIAN to ask this question the other day: "What nation contributes the largest number of these citizens?" During the year ending May 1, 333 men filed with the county clerk their declarations of intention of becoming citizens. Of these 106 are native of Great Britain, 87 of Germany, 64 of Norway and Sweden, 21 of Switzerland, 16 of Russia, 7 of Denmark, 6 of Austria, 5 of France, 5 of Belgium, 4 of Italy, and 1 each of Ecuador and Spain.

LARCENY ON THE HIGH SEAS.—Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer from San Francisco yesterday afternoon was a Chinaman named Goon Dip, a baker by profession, formerly employed on the steamer Idaho. On the way up a fellow who gives the name of M. Wells, threw this Chinaman's valise overboard, having first appropriated it. On the arrival of the steamer at Astoria, Goon Dip excitedly telegraphed to Seid Back: "White man steal my valise; have policeman at wharf." So when the steamer reached the wharf here policeman Holmberg took charge of Mr. Wells, and he is now in jail charged with larceny on the high seas.

WANTS TO CONDEMN.—The Walla Walla Union says: On Tuesday the O. R. & N. Co. filed in the land office in this city maps of the right of way from Eureka Flat Junction via Riparia up the north bank of Snake river to Lewiston. It is reported that Dr. Allen, a resident of the flat, will contest their entrance on his land, as according to their survey, the railroad will by his statement, utterly ruin his orchard and farm. He claims that he should be paid damages for loss of value to his whole farm, while the railroad company claim that as he has not proved up on the land, they should only pay the actual cost of improvements damaged.

NEW QUARTZ DISCOVERY.—A private letter from Sweet Home, Linn county, states that there is considerable excitement over the quartz mine on the Blue river, a tributary of the McKenzie, which heads just south of Lost prairie on the Willamette Valley and Cascade mountain wagon road, and that indications point to a rush to the mines this summer. The only way to reach them is via the McKenzie and a very difficult route it is. The writer of the letter believes that a good pack trail could be made into the mines by leaving the wagon road at or near the summit of the Iron mountain, or what is better known as seven mile hill.

THE ASTORIA RAILROAD.—The Astoria railroad scheme has not died out by any means, though but very little has been heard of it lately. Some months ago, Col. Woodward and his associates, representing the McNulta syndicate, were expected in Astoria to arrange preliminaries, but they did not come. Col. Woodward writes that he will be in Astoria on the 15th instant. The subsidy of $150,000 which was raised for the purpose still holds good and is a standing bid for a broad gauge railroad direct to Portland, or one connecting with a broad gauge road running into Portland.

BIG CATTLE SHIPMENT.—A drove of young cattle, 600 in number, passed through the city yesterday forenoon. From one of the men in charge it was learned that they were yearlings which had been bought up in the Willamette valley for a Mr. Thompson, who has a range in the Yakima country. There was a great deal of difference in the sizes of the animals, but they all counted as yearlings and cost on an average about $13 per head. This is considered a very fair price for cattle of this kind, and it would seem as if it should pay farmers well to raise them.

A BUSY SCENE.—Quite a force of men are employed on the terminal works of the P. & W. V. railway at the public levee, and the ground along Water street is piled with timber and planks. That street is planked for half its width from Columbia to Jefferson on a level, leaving a roadway down to Jefferson street, and the planking extends nearly out to the edge of the levee wharf, forming quite a large platform. The piling extends along the levee front up as far as the foot of Columbia street.

VAULT TO BE ENLARGED.—The county judge and commissioners have decided to add another story to the vault where the county records are kept, and yesterday looked over the place in company with architect A. L. Smith, who was instructed to prepare plans. The additional story will open into state circuit court No. 1, and will be occupied by the clerk of the circuit court to be elected next month.

BRITISH BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—At the annual meeting of the British Benevolent Society, held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, James Laidlaw; Vice-President, W. S. Sibson; Secretary, D. J. Macdonell; Treasurer, John Reid; Directors, Donald Macleay, Frederick Townsend, George H. Chance; Board of Relief, John Cran, K. A. J. Mackenzie.

INCREASED EXPRESS CHARGES.—Fish dealers complain that express charges on a case of Eastern oysters from San Francisco to Portland has been raised from $1 50 to $4 30, and other things accordingly. This has shut off the supply of Eastern oysters and other things also. The freight on a box of sturgeon from here to San Francisco has been raised from $2 to $3 75. Whither do we trend?

MAPLE HONEY.—A lot of this most delicious article, fresh and pure, of this season's crop just received direct from Vermont, by G. O. Bailey, at No. 55 North Second street. This is the first and only shipment of the season. It is warranted pure and has the genuine maple flavor.

SOMETHING NEW IN NAILS.

Eastern Manufacturers Establish a New "Base of Grades."

"Anything new in nails?" asked a reporter of a hardware man yesterday as the latter stood looking at a thousand kegs or so of those useful articles being rolled into his store.

"Yes," was the reply, "the whole schedule of nails is busted. A convention of the Western nail manufacturers has totally changed the classification."

Visions of a "nail trust" danced before the eyes of the inquirer, and he began to wonder whether he should now ever be able to purchase a much needed nail to hang his coat on. "Has the price riz?" he asked.

"Oh, no, there is no change in prices, but the 16-penny nail has been adopted as the base of grades, so to speak, instead of the old tenpenny nail."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Paragraphic Summary of Oregon and Washington Happenings.

A Family Quarrel—The Big Bend Metropolis—Marble Ledge Discovered—Notorious Outlaw Recaptured

OREGON.

A coasting schooner is being built by Wm Squire at Tillamook

The Congregationalists of Hillsboro expect soon to build a church

Paris is the name of the new town laid out for the county seat of Malheur county and the county is without a newspaper

Hon Thos Page is before the court at Pendleton asking for a divorce from his wife, with whom he has lived for over a quarter of a century

A petition is being circulated at Lakeview and in the neighboring valley asking congress to restrain capitalists from taking water from Goose lake, and to declare that beautiful body of water a navigable lake

The Willow Creek school house near Prineville was burned the other night Malicious incendiarism is supposed to be the cause of the fire About ten years ago a school house was burned in the same district.

Mrs Amanda Davidson died recently at Tillamook She was the daughter of James and Anna Quick and was born November 26 1853 the first white girl born in Tillamook county She leaves a husband and two small children

Col Elliott United States swamp land commissioner and C L Richmond, state swamp land commissioner, appointed by the governor have gone to Lakeview to finish the examination of lands claimed as swamp in that district The work will occupy some three months

Forest Grove and Hillsboro creameries are in good running order and prove a great convenience to those who have cows within a reasonable distance

The 15-year-old daughter of George Kennedy, owner of the foundry at Corvallis about 2 o clock yesterday morning eloped from her home in that city with some unknown man The parties were overtaken at Independence, Polk county, and the girl was taken home by her father

A little girl of W. R. Wright, postmaster at Shedd, Linn county, was slightly burned the other day, by the explosion of a coal oil can, from which she was pouring oil into a lighted stove Her mother seeing the girl's clothing in a blaze smothered the fire out with her apron and skirts, burning her hand in doing so. The can luckily contained but little oil

Geo F Cooper, a resident of Baker county has been adjudged insane and committed to the asylum. The young man it is said, was highly respected by those who knew him, and his unfortunate condition is much regretted. No cause can be assigned, save that several years ago while in a Southern state, he had a severe attack of yellow fever from the effects of which he never fully recovered.

Eugene Notes.

EUGENE, May 8

The state convention of the W C T U is in session in this city with a fair attendance.

Mr. R. M Day is having a good brick business room erected on the main street of the city

The fine weather of the present season is being enjoyed by several persons looking for homes.

The prospects for heavy crops of grain, grass and fruits were never exceeded in this county this season

Mechanics are all busy and there is every indication of more improvements being made in this city this year than last, which was then the greatest in its history

The university catalogues will be printed by the Register office of this city the present year Commencement exercises are already being looked forward to as an enjoyable occasion

A car load, about forty people immigrants from Nebraska, arrived in Eugene this week They are mostly general farmers and appear like intelligent and desirable additions to our population. Two car loads more will arrive in a few days.

The political kettle won't boil very rapidly, although some interested parties are making vigorous efforts to get up foam The republicans are better united than for years past which indicates the election of their entire ticket, as the county is certainly republican on a united vote

A young men's republican club with over 150 members has been organized and the enthusiasm among the boys is greater than usual at this stage of the campaign Clubs have been organized at Junction, Cottage Grove and other points in the county and every effort will be made to get out a full republican vote

A company has been formed and the necessary preliminary steps taken to establish a large tannery in this city. This is a valuable addition to our industries but Eugene needs a large woolen mill worse than any other kind of manufactory just now The company owning the water power offers it free for a term of years to anyone who will establish one

Malheur County

Baker City Democrat. Residents of Malheur county with whom we have conversed recently give an encouraging account of the up-build of that section and its rapid increase of population. The county embraces the finest stock ranges in the Northwest and tens of thousands of stock cattle and horses feed winter and summer on the bountiful supply of incomparable bunch grass that grows here to perfection In the numerous valleys of the Snake, Malheur and Owyhee rivers agricultural lands of the finest quality and fertility can be found and is just being put into a fine state of cultivation Much of the land of the Malheur country remains vacant from the fact of a lack of irrigation but we understand this great evil is about to be remedied by the building of canals one in particular that will take its water from the Owyhee and reclaim thousands of acres Its projectors are a wealthy Eastern syndicate, and that the work will be accomplished is almost an assured fact This done in a few years Malheur county will be made to "blossom as the rose"

A Family Quarrel

J J Roselle of Sweet Home was arrested and taken to Albany on a charge of attempting to kill Daniel Morris, his son in law at that place on the 14th inst The facts of the assault as near as can be ascertained are that Roselle and his son in law did not agree and on the date named Morris came to the residence of the old gentleman and accused him of saying unpleasant things about him and his wife He produced a razor and brandished it in the air until Roselle got the butcher knife and ordered him out of the house, when he flew out at the window and the old gentleman went back to his plowing A son of Roselle swore out the warrant for his arrest and said his father had also threatened to kill him and his mother When arraigned Roselle said he never carried a revolver and thought it pretty hard papers to bring up his boys and then have them place him under arrest when he had no desire or intention of harming anyone After getting at the bottom facts in the case Justice Humphrey discharged the prisoner

Suicide of a Saddler

Prineville News C M Stevens a saddler and well known in The Dalles committed suicide at Button Springs last Tuesday morning by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. It appears that Stevens had been on a prolonged spree at Lakeview and was under the belief that someone wanted to kill him He was traveling in company with several others, and shot himself in the presence of the whole party Mr Grace, of the springs, took his property in charge some $800 in money and notes, and horse and buggy, and the remains were buried after an informal inquest

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Walla Walla has organized a building and loan association

Over 100 houses will be built in Pomeroy before the end of 1888.

Twenty-two dollars a thousand was paid for brick in Port Townsend this week.

Wallula now supports eight hotels and lodging houses, with another one building which will be completed in a few days

L Frank Boyd late enrolling clerk of the territorial legislature has succeeded Col. F. J Parker as publisher of the Walla Walla Statesman.

Washington territory at present has 1066 miles of railroads in operation and 500 miles of surveyed and projected. Another year will see the greater portion of the projected lines completed and many more under contract

Bishop J A Paddock, D. D., of Tacoma, has so far recovered from his protracted illness as to be able to resume his visits to Eastern Washington

F H Osgood, president of the Seattle Street Car Company says the street cars in that town will be propelled by electricity inside of four months

The Tacoma National bank is to be enlarged by an addition 25x50 feet two stories in hight The improvements will cost $8000 and will be done about August 1.

D W Small of Walla, is poorer by $3000, the value of his barn which was burned the other night A half a dozen small boys and a pack of cigarettes was the cause

Shelton will be a creditable county seat for Mason county It is one of the growing towns of Western Washington with progressive citizens and has a bright future before it

As Willard Newcomb was plowing on Upper Palouse last week he looked up and saw a pine tree falling and had barely time to stand aside and see it mash the handles off from his plow brushing himself and team with its outer limbs

Oysterville Journal A family named Clements residing in Camas, was recently blessed with triplets—girls—weighing thirteen pounds and fourteen ounces The mother Mrs Bertha E Clements, ten months ago bore twins—boys—and now triplets, making five children within ten months She is a lady weighing 154 pounds. Mother and triplets doing well

Articles of incorporation have been filed with Secretary Owings at Olympia, of the Puget Sound Navigation & Improvement Company Its capital stock is $50,000 and its directors are Wm Bryant George W Bullene L A Dyer Samuel Jackson and J L Oliver Its objects are to construct and operate wharves and warehouses and do a general commission business in Seattle

Olympia Partisan There seems to be a lively old row blossoming out among the democrats, over the selection of J. J Browne of Spokane and Stewart Rice of Tacoma, as delegates to Chicago in June It is because they are charged with being railroad men A man in Washington territory that was not in favor of railroads and plenty of them to develop our resources would not be a man worthy of the confidence of an individual or a party

The residence portion of Port Townsend is one of the most sightly and picturesque of any city on Puget sound The location is a commanding one—an elevated plateau gently sloping toward the bay The view presented is magnificent beyond description, being that of a panorama of snow-capped mountains including Mounts Rainier, Olympus and Baker, the bay and the straits of Fuca, Whidby, Protection and San Juan islands, and the shores of Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Centralia Items.

CENTRALIA, W T, May 9

The Texans are scattering through the country, taking up land

The mills here are running on full time. Crosby's mill runs night and day

Strangers are still coming in on every train and new houses are continually being built

A Sunday school picnic will be held on Tuesday in Tullis's grove, under the auspices of the Baptist church

Mr Phelps, an old pioneer of this territory, has moved into town and is commencing to build quite a nice residence

The store goods belonging to Axtell & Mills have been bought by a Portland party and will be shipped back again

Rev Charles Spencer, who has been here several months has built a nice home. His family arrived here from Michigan last week

Grandma Jamieson one of the oldest settlers in this country, fell, as she was going to church yesterday, and severely bruised herself

Dr Smith is about to leave Centralia He has been here three or four years, and has made many friends by his kindness and gentlemanly manners

Our citizens are quite on the improvement plan Buildings are all being decked out in new coats of paint which adds greatly to the beauty of our already picturesque little place

Mr Eugene Moore and his little boys, and Mrs Gertie Fouts, who have wintered in Butte county, Cal. have returned and are looking well They like Washington territory the better.

Centralia is destined to be a city in the near future Her coal beds when opened, will give employment to hundreds There is coal in the hills all along the line from Centralia to Seatco and even further There has also been found coal in abundance up Lincoln creek, about ten miles from town, which is said to be of a better quality than the Seatco coal or that of the Bijou, coal mine one mile from Centralia

Orondo News

ORONDO W T May 1

A postoffice has been applied for at Orondo

The steamer is looked for with great interest by the citizens of the Bend

The Badger mountain sawmill is not able any longer to supply the demand for lumber

The greatest emigration boom ever seen in the Big Bend has come upon us this spring

Waterville has had a building boom in keeping with the settlement of the plains around it

A new town site is being surveyed nine miles beyond the middle crossing of the Grand Coulee

Five hundred or 600 logs are being rafted down the Columbia for timbers for the Orondo water power

The lands on the Columbia river bottoms are being settled rapidly as well as the lands of the adjacent tributaries

A party of surveyors in the interest of the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern railroad are now at work west of the Grand Coulee

A sawmill is to be erected in a few months three fourths of a mile above the mouth of the Entiat river which will give lumber within two and a half miles of Orondo

There has been coal found in the sandstone formation in the Wenatchee valley. The formation is supposed to be the same clear through from Cle-elum An excitement has been running its course lately about a find of gold bearing quartz in Canyon No 2 but we have not learned the result of an assay

A new addition to Orondo is being platted now Two thousand five hundred dollars is being expended in the improvement of its fine water power There is no flouring mill in the Big Bend yet Parties who desire to put in a first-class roller mill will do well to correspond with J B & G Smith proprietors of the water power Address them Orondo Ladger P O Douglas county W T

The Big Bend Metropolis

Waterville is a place now of 700 people, although it was only laid out last fall It is a government townsite and there is no speculation in town lots there Any citizen can secure two lots by paying for the making out of the papers but every man who secures a lot must build a house on it before he can secure a patent for his buildings From Waterville to within twelve miles of Spokane Falls a distance of 125 miles there is a great rolling bunch grass country which is an empire in itself and all it requires is a thrifty class of settlers and these will come with the advent of a railroad The Big Bend proper comprises a strip of land 150 miles long and 70 miles wide or in other word 2000 square miles

Marble Discovered

Post Intelligencer John C Ohlert of Seattle, has lately discovered and pre-empted a ledge of fine marble on Orcas island and he and his partner also a Seattle man are preparing to build wharves and make other improvements preparatory to developing the quarry The ledge is said to be 100 feet in width If this be true and judging by the polished specimens now on hand it is a reasonably safe prediction that ere many years there will be some handsome marble buildings erected in Seattle

IDAHO

Luther Fook, a jeweler of Silver City while repairing his roof fell to the ground fracturing his left hip and shoulder

Moscow Miner As Mr Henry H King was riding a cayuse and leading his stallion the cayuse got frightened bucked and in the huddle the stallion jumped upon both horse and man severely biting Mr King's arm and biting off Mr. K's right ear

The town of Caldwell Idaho was founded five years ago on a sagebrush flat It is now a thriving city, where all lines of trade are represented, has telephone connection with Boise and Silver City, and has a cigar factory, a soap factory and broom factory Seven carloads of alfalfa seed were handled this spring by her merchants, to supply the farmers adjacent and the town is forging ahead in a way that some larger cities would do well to imitate

Notorious Outlaw Recaptured.

Shoshone Journal Teton Jackson, the notorious outlaw who was captured in Yellowstone county, Montana, a short time ago, arrived at Butte Saturday night in the custody of deputy sheriff Tiner of Boise city He was held there in the county jail over night and was taken south Sunday morning says the Butte Inter Mountain Jackson is wanted in Boise to serve out a fifteen years sentence in the penitentiary He had already served one year when he escaped. This occured nearly two years ago Teton Jackson passed through Shoshone Monday morning on his way to his old quarters in the Boise Pen On arriving in sight of the place the officer asked if it looked natural, and he answered "Yes too natural!"—admitting he had been there before which he had before strenuously denied

No Chinese in Shoshone

Since October, 1885 there have been no Chinese allowed in Shoshone About two weeks ago Mr P W Spencer of the Falls hotel in that town, secured two Chinese cooks, stating he was unable to get any other help On Thursday night a party of ten or twelve boys and young men decoyed them a mile out of town to the Dill ranch and nearly frightened their cues off their heads with threats loud noises and the firing of guns They were chased and one of them caught placed on a hand car and run up the railroad track a short distance where he was let off but he kept on going and was picked up the next day eighteen miles from town The other celestial found his way back to the hotel The following night two or three other Chinamen came down to investigate the affair

An Owl Caught by a Locomotive

Pocatello Reporter Engineer Jack Bristol tells a singular story His engine was running at a good speed just above Blackfoot when his headlight suddenly went out and as daylight was coming on shortly continued his run to Eagle Rock There he made an investigation and, to his surprise, found a big owl snugly ensconced behind the burner He had been attracted by the glare of the headlight and had made a dive for it while the engine was going at full speed The glass was broken and the flame had been put out by the flap of his wings He was easily captured entirely unharmed and borne in triumph to Butte where he now sagaciously blinks behind the bar of a popular saloon

STATE HOMEOPATHISTS.

A Bold Paper on the Treatment of Insane Patients.

Protest Against Treating an Invalid as if He Were a Criminal—Hints as to a Building

The second day's session of the twelfth annual meeting of the Oregon State Homeopathic society was held in the parlors of the Gilman house yesterday During the morning the following papers were read Spongia Tosta, Dr George Wigg, Tarantula Cubensis, Dr A Pohl, Aconitum Napellus, Dr S A Brown

In the afternoon papers were read as follows Our Pharmaceutists, Dr L Henderson, Vesico Vaginal Fistula, Dr B E Miller The Insane and Their Proper Treatment Dr Osmon Royal

Dr Royal's essay is a very interesting one having reference to the mode of treatment in the Oregon insane asylum Appended is the full text of the paper

REVOLUTIONIZING ANCIENT CUSTOMS

This is pre eminently an age of investigation discovery and reform In centuries past one generation took for granted the theories of preceding generations and accordingly did things as their fathers had done before them having no other reason for so doing than that their fathers had done them so and so thus the customs of yesterday become the laws of to-day While this has been the situation of affairs in many departments of knowledge and of labor it seems to have been particularly true in the science and practice of medicine and in no one branch of medicine was this more true than in relation to the insane and their care But the time when the blind will be submissively led by the blind is past. The time was when an insane person was considered one gone mad or possessed of a devil and deserving of solitary confinement—in short a criminal who deserved as a sort of punishment to be deprived of liberty

In these days we know insanity to be an abnormal state due to some diseased condition of the brain The knowledge of this fact is fast revolutionizing the entire system of caring for the insane Instead of the ancient 'prison system the modern and humane hospital' method is now coming into vogue Yet I regret to say that, even in this enlightened age the best methods of treatment and general care are adopted far too slowly and the object of this paper is to awaken if possible, a livelier interest in behalf of this large and rapidly increasing class and secure for them the surroundings and care that will relieve and cure the greatest possible number; for it has been demonstrated that insanity, if taken in time is, in a large percentage of cases, a curable disease I know this is contrary to general opinion, but the fact has been clearly proved by results in our best managed

HOSPITALS FOR THE INSANE

It was an astounding fact to me to learn that there are in the United States in round numbers, nearly 100,000 insane persons. Think of this vast number, the majority of whom, if under treatment in any asylum, are confined, for the most part, in bare cells, the four walls of which, with its little iron cot bed and bare floor, constitutes their only home, except at stated hours when some of the more quiet ones are allowed to walk in a wide hallway, or possibly in an open court where they are jostled about and leered at by scores or hundreds of their idiotic imbecile or insane fellows. Many of these patients have lucid intervals, some are as sane as they ever were except during an occasional brief spell, yet all must be surrounded by those whose constant company would make many sane persons insane This is an evil which, for financial reasons chiefly, it will be difficult to solve yet this is only one of the minor ills, and not by any means the beginning or the end of the insane man's troubles and improper care Often his abuse begins before entering an asylum Let disease affect that part which we term the body as distinguished from the mind or brain and we at once give the sufferer every possible comfort and care He has kind and faithful attendants, pleasant surroundings quiet, if needed proper food and the attendance of a skilled physician

ABUSE OF THE INSANE

Should this same person's brain become sick or diseased and his mind unsettled how different the treatment accorded him! And why? Simply because as we say he is insane! Now he is shunned perhaps driven from home. It may be that an officer will hand cuff him and place him in a cold damp dark dungeon, where he will receive precisely the same treatment he would had he committed theft or murder Often even his friends do nothing for him He has no special kindness or attention shown him. Though that wonderfully wrought that sensitive organ we call the brain is diseased, though the thinking, reasoning, responsible part of his being is disordered and sick he receives no tempting delicacies but only prison fare and there's no physician called. And why? Because you say he's "crazy" Then he is taken before a judge of the law and a physician (either of whom may or may not be qualified to decide in so important a case) and is sent to an asylum Had he by a fall broken a limb he would have been removed to a home or hospital where he would have received such care as he needed but if the fall bruised and deranged the brain he is shipped to a prison like asylum for the insane No trained nurse accompanies him, but some deputy sheriff

I have no fault to find with any deputy in this state for treatment given by him to any insane person under his care but I do propose to make war against this whole system of management of the insane, which from first to last places the brain sick man in the hands of the law, treating him more as a criminal than an invalid

WHAT OREGON NEEDS

One of the first things needed in our state is a change of the laws governing commitments to the insane asylum Several persons have already been sent to the Oregon asylum who were not insane at all Let one man be wrongfully sent to the penitentiary and what feelings of indignation and excitement are at once aroused But so used have we become to abuse of the insane that a false commitment to an asylum is scarcely noticed A law which is so lax as to allow a sane man to be sent, either through malice or ignorance to an insane asylum is a disgrace to our state, yet such is the law upon our statute books

I have yet to speak of the most important part of my subject namely The proper care of the insane after their commitment to the asylum Insanity, as I have already said makes a man an invalid and not a criminal, and his entire treatment should be with the one end in view of making the sick man well To begin with the buildings already constructed for our insane are built upon what I have already called the prison plan An interchange of buildings between our state penitentiary and our insane asylum might almost be made without a noticeable difference as to convenience or adaptability Other buildings must soon be erected to accommodate the constantly increasing number of insane and we should use our best endeavors to secure for them such a place as will be best suited to their care and treatment The system of cottage hospital now rapidly coming into use should be adopted.

GENERAL SUPERVISION AND PERSONAL CARE

But far more important than all this is the general supervision and the personal care and management by the attendant or what might better be termed the nursing and medical treatment of the insane We can not to day give you a picture of it this is really much like the work of [illegible] for a person would need one of drawing upon my imagination for facts or say I might have dipped my pencil in ink to have drawn so black a picture Simply let the bare facts be known and the results obtained by our own and like institutions elsewhere be noted and compared and you will see why I am calling for reform

There is no longer a question as to the fact that a large per cent of cases of insanity are curable In the figures which I am to give I have no desire to find fault with the management of the asylum in our own state So far as I know the best has been done that could be done with the means provided and by the methods of treatment employed, but these are not sufficient The statistics which I take for comparison with those of our own state are from insane asylums located respectively at Poughkeepsie and Middletown, New York, and are compiled chiefly from statistics of the years 1885-6. The figures for this state are from the report of the superintendent of the Oregon state insane asylum for the two years ending November 30, 1886 The per cent of cured is based upon the whole number discharged

	Method of Treatment	Per Ct Deaths	Per Ct Cured
Poughkeepsie Asylum	Allopathic	7.2	30 62
Middletown "	Homeopathic	4 96	48.20
Oregon "	Allopathic	9.00	23 45

DEATH RATE IN OREGON'S ASYLUM

The above table reveals two facts first that the death rate in the Oregon asylum is high, and second that the per cent of cures under allopathic treatment as compared with homeopathic care, is very low That I might not be accused of unfairness to the methods of the dominant school I have selected figures from the Poughkeepsie asylum, which has one of the best records of any asylum under allopathic control in the United States A large number of state asylums have records far below that given by this asylum.

Now let us inquire into the reasons for such a poor record as we find our own asylum making The types of insanity with which we have to deal do not differ from those found elsewhere Our climate is proverbially a healthy one, which fact alone should guarantee us a more favorable record The location of our asylum is healthy the food supplied to inmates is good in quality and sufficient in quantity Where then is to be found the cause for the poor success thus far shown?

The reasons have already been suggested and are First—Lack of proper buildings and accommodations Second—Failure to employ the best methods of treatment and to have the same administered by physicians and attendants of requisite experience skill and ability Third—A reason which is largely responsible for both of these already given namely the management of the whole by politicians and political methods, which makes our insane wards nothing more nor less than a prize for politicians.

DUTY OF THE SOCIETY

Having a knowledge of these facts before us is it right that we sit idly by and make no effort to improve the condition of this much neglected and abused class? Our duty is plain, and the remedy for the evils suggested is equally clear Let us demand more suitable buildings erected upon the "hospital" plan, see that the best methods of treatment are used and the highest skill employed in administering the same and lastly that the management be removed as far as possible from the hands of politicians

There is abundant and conclusive evidence that homeopathic treatment of the insane is superior to that commonly employed in asylums

Application was recently made to the trustees of the Toledo, Ohio asylum asking that a homeopath be appointed as superintendent who should have medical control of the institution. After an exhaustive inquiry the board made the following report

WHEREAS, Believing that the homeopathic system of medical treatment, and especially the methods employed by that school in the conduct of hospitals and asylums for the insane in this and other states, in point of percentage of annual cures effected the low percentage of death rate received the large annual saving in expenses of medical stores, as well as the general success in treatment and management of this unfortunate class of patients, to be superior to that of any other school of medicine as now practiced in like institutions and under like conditions; therefore

"Resolved, That, acting upon this conviction, the board does hereby approve the homeopathic system of medicine for the use and treatment of insane patients of the Toledo asylum and to that end will in due time select and appoint as a medical superintendent of said institution a learned skillful and well qualified member of that school "

It is earnestly hoped that ere long Oregon will follow the worthy example of other states and give this highly successful method of treatment a trial in this state

How He Met His Fate

Ketchum Keystone John Yager a resident of Comet for some time past has become a prominent actor in quite a little romance To relieve the tedium of life in that lonely burg he has been in the habit of reading the advertising columns of the Heart and Hand a journal published in Chicago in the interest of matrimonial advertisers An advertisement way down in Maine caught John's eye and ensnared his fancy and he answered it A vigorous correspondence ensued and the parties thereto became devoted lovers exchanging vows and photographs by means of the United State mail until their hearts though sundered by thousands of miles throbbed in perfect unison About six weeks ago Mr Yager left for the East to make the personal acquaintance of his unknown beloved. The hopes and anticipations they had cherished were not disappointed They found each other "all that fancy painted," and soon the solemn words were said that made the twain one flesh Mr Yager, with his fair bride returned to Idaho on last Monday's train, and at once the happy couple proceeded to their home in Comet.

NEWS FROM THE EAST SIDE

Lack of Activity in the Fire Department and Remedies Suggested—The Proposed New Hotel—General Notes.

Mr Geo Sinsfield clerk of the Albina school district, reports the schools in a prosperous condition The attendance has been very large, and even with the extra rooms in the new building the facilities have been considerably taxed. Two more rooms in the Central building are to be finished—one on the first and one on the second floor These it is thought will give ample room for the coming year The building on Williams avenue will be repainted and otherwise improved Prof Wash, principal of the schools makes the following report

During the month of April there were but two cases of tardiness and none of corporal punishment, nor has there been a case of suspension during the school year The banner class had an average attendance of 96 5 per cent the average of the school being 95 5 The non tardy banner will be held one week each by four different rooms The total enrollment, including the Central school under Mrs A B Anderson and the Multnomah school in charge of Miss Carrie Myers aggregates about 400, of whom about 320 still belong The school year so far has been both pleasant and successful the moral sentiment and discipline being about all that could be desired

THE ALBINA FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Albina fire department seems to be languishing and needs some sort of stimulation One trouble has been that a large number of the members have had occupations outside of the city and have not been able to attend the meetings nor help the organization in any way But another drawback has been that the company has not received the support and encouragement from the property holders to whom the company affords protection that should have been given Notwithstanding these discouragements the company has quite a number of energetic members who have maintained the organization and kept it going Albina needs a fire engine It is growing rapidly and can well afford an engine, and then there will be something to encourage the boys and bring them together in an effective fire company

HAS ALL THE CHILDREN

Hinkins, whose wife deserted him last week, has all the children he having secured the oldest boy Tuesday There are so many different stories about this family from their neighbors and from the parties themselves that it is difficult to arrive at a correct conclusion It is a sad thing for the three little ones—the eldest being only seven years—to be deprived of a home and be put out among strangers Mr. Hinkins states that he will provide well for them Until the case comes up in the court, he will make no statement to the public

THAT NEW HOTEL

The contract for the new hotel to be built in East Portland by Jacob Zimmerman, was let some time ago to Detrick & Co This firm was seen yesterday, and Mr Detrick said he had every reason to believe the work will be undertaken in due time There will be some modification of the plans as originally drawn Mr Detrick stated that the water is too high in the slough to commence work at present

NOTES

Elder Boggs will preach in the Christian church on Tenth and J streets, this evening

Mr D Hammond, of Emporia, Kan, is in the city with a view to engaging in the lumber business

The M E Sunday school excursion boat will leave Alder street, Portland 7 30, and Johnson's wharf 7 45 Saturday morning

There are a great many republicans, and democrats too who would be glad to hear the Hon George H Williams on the political issues of the day The Central Club would do well to secure him if they can.

It will not be long before the Dekum company will commence active operations along its route Already the effect along the proposed route between East Portland and the Columbia river is being felt in the price of property However, it is to be hoped that the prices will not be raised too high as in that case it would retard and not help the growth of the country It will make the land along the route more valuable than ever and yet there is such a thing as holding beyond the reach of purchasers

A STUDY IN "INDEPENDENCE."

New York Tribune

Mugwump organs are constantly proclaiming that their political attitude is one of independence Not a republican, not a democrat but the critic of both parties and the partisan of neither is the account which the typical mugwump gives of himself in defining his relation to the two great parties Is the description accurate Is the mugwump a genuine independent?

The mugwump of 1884 supported Mr Cleveland because Mr Cleveland was supposed to be a reformer The mugwump was shut up to doing so because it could not be pretended that Mr Cleveland was a statesman It follows therefore that if Mr Cleveland has proved a failure as a reformer the mugwump in case he is also an independent can have no further use for him is in honor bound to drop him and to protest against his candidacy for re election But the facts are First—That Mr Cleveland has proved a failure as a reformer Second—That nevertheless the mugwump leaders are still backing him Harper's Weekly, whose editor is commonly recognized as mugwump in chief lately admitted that Mr Cleveland had yielded to the malign pressure which had been brought to bear upon him by the Democratic party that instead of bending the organization to his purposes as a reformer he had been bent by it to its purposes as a spoils seeker In its last issue The Weekly again pillories the President It declares that he cannot be ignorant of the contemptuous disregard of his profound convictions shown by committees and managers of his party and of the scandal which it brings upon him and upon the country. As if this reproach was not bitter enough as it stands, The Weekly adds When the republican majority in congress ceased to profess any regard for reform President Grant frankly abandoned the attempt. It was a better course than to permit the injury to the cause which inevitably results ing prominent. At New York the market is quiet and unmistakably easy. Holders will not confess to concessions but buyers claim them on every hand and are not anxious to purchase, expecting better bargains later on.

HAY—Dealers have an ample supply, and the market rules rather easy. For timothy $16 is the extreme, the less desirable grades being slow at $14@15, offerings of which are large. Wild hay is difficult to sell at any price, the supply being excessive.

HIDES, ETC—Advices reflect nothing but dullness, which condition the local market is compelled to acknowledge in turn. Quotations of leading sorts are: Dry beef hides 8@10c per pound, culls 6@7c, kip and calf 8@10c, green salted 4@5c, kip and calf 6c, culls one-third off; valley deerskins 27½@32½c, and Eastern Oregon 22½@27½c for summer and winter; elkskins 22@18c; sheep pelts 20@80c for short to medium wooled 90c@$1 25 for long and 10@12c for murrain; beaver 75c to $2 per pound; bear 60c to $8 brown and 50c to $12 black. Tallow quoted 3@3½c.

LONDON GRAIN LETTER.

Writing under date of April 23, the Minneapolis Miller's London correspondent says of markets and crop prospects:

The weather has become quite spring-like, both in this country and on the continent, so people feel a little less nervous and apprehensive about the result of the crops. It is, however, tolerably certain that in France and Germany the very severe weather in March has left traces which even the best of weather will not be able to efface, and the general opinion is that in both countries the wheat crop this year cannot be an average one, even under the most favorable weather influences during the remainder of the season, while if the weather becomes unfavorable short crops are certain. This is quite an important matter, seeing that the winter wheat crop in the United States is likely to be less than last year to the extent of 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels, and it is quite sufficient to account for the improvement in the wheat trade here during the past week. Buyers, it is true, are rather timid in following the upward movement, but they have bought so sparingly during the last few months, in view of a possible decline in prices, that they are getting very low in stock, so that they are not able to withstand any concerted action on the part of holders in restricting offers, which they have done lately. There is, moreover, quite a brisk continental demand for the cargoes of white wheat arriving off the English coast, from California and Australia, which, coinciding with a falling off in the supplies of homegrown wheat, has imparted additional strength to the market. California wheat arrived off the coast is now worth 33s 3d per 500 lbs, while prompt shipments are only obtainable at 34s, which is about 1s 6d per qr above the lowest point of three weeks ago. Australian wheat arrived off the coast is worth 34s 6d. Red winter continues conspicuous by its absence, and the complaints, especially on the continent, with regard to its quality, are very serious. New York steamers running to Antwerp have even carried ballast instead of wheat. St. Louis grading is the only quality of No. 2 red winter which buyers here will now take.

Another reason for the more confident feeling now prevalent in the trade is the probability that the supplies during the next three months, contrary to what might have been expected, cannot be excessive, and may possibly be less than our requirements. The general opinion had been, I may mention, that we should be swamped with wheat during the summer months, but the following extract from Beerbohm's List of Friday last, and which may be pretty well relied upon, shows that there is really no fear of such a state of things. Probable supplies of wheat and flour in the United Kingdom from April 1 to June 30:

United States—Pacific coast	850,000	790,000
United States—Atlantic ports	500,000	1,117,000
Chile	150,000	84,000
Russia	1,000,000	112,000
India	250,000	300,000
Australia	300,000	72,000
Sundries	325,000	394,000
Total flour	1,200,000	1,300,000
English wheat	1,600,000	1,750,000
Total supply	6,175,000	5,919,000
Minimum consumption	6,000,000	6,000,000
Difference	175	81,990

In my opinion the probable supplies from Russia this year are over-estimated and I should not be surprised to find quite an active demand for the continent in these three months, which would proportionately lessen our supplies in the United Kingdom. If this be the case, the result, as I have already said, will be that the consumption will overlap the supply, and if the American crop reports do not improve, the result will be an advance in prices. At any rate we shall evidently have interesting markets during the next three months.

As everything will turn on the prospects for the next crop, which if it proves to be a short one, both in Europe and America, will undoubtedly lead to a big advance in prices, it is worth while to notice that the present spring, in its extraordinary cold and bleak character, has been almost exactly similar to the spring of 1879, which, however, was wet as well as cold. Now, the crops in Europe in 1879 were about the most deficient on record, and as the weather prophets predict a similarly cold and wet summer to that experienced in 1879, (and these meteorological indications seldom if ever err, we are told) the changes are considered to be in favor of short crops this year of grace 1888. I must say that this is a very slender basis for the speculator to work upon, but it is a fact that the trade is getting imbued with the idea, and this is quite sufficient to prevent prices from giving way, at least.

On the other hand the further increase in the quantity afloat for the United Kingdom guarantees that there will be no lack of wheat in the summer months, even if Atlantic ports do not ship half as much per week of wheat and flour as they have done during the past three months. Present abundance, it is true, never has much weight with holders, when there is a decided scarcity in perspective, and stocks in Europe, as I have frequently pointed out, are too small to allow of a short crop occurring without effecting a radical change in the general notion as to the value of a bushel of wheat.

The Merchandise Markets.

For the greater part of the week the weather has been very much like late spring, a warm sun making itself felt during the day while northerly winds brought cool nights. Vegetation has leaped forward under these conditions and now has every appearance of a healthy growth. From the grain sections the one report is that wheat is doing well and that late April rains brought about most promising conditions. Unfavorable harvest weather is now alone to be met with and this is too far in the future to be regarded with apprehension. California did not get the rain wanted although the light showers greatly helped certain small sections. Speculative wheat prices were depressed only for a short season by the weather change and this is regarded as good evidence of small aid given the fields.

The merchandise market presents no material value changes but shows a magnificent movement. Westward rail freights have lost none of the proportions referred to for several weeks and summer arrivals promise to greatly exceed earlier expectations. There is quite a call in heavy goods incident to the settlement and development of country by fresh immigration while old lines of trade steadily increase their demands. Stocking up is not at all indulged in at this time but jobbers find demands to be larger than looked for and present arrivals are not long held in store. A dull produce market is the only unfavorable item in trade and this must continue one all summer. Finances are in very satisfactory shape notwithstanding the large demand and use of money for investment purposes.

With May the run of salmon in the Columbia has increased, not largely but enough to be noticed and to compel higher ideas as to the earlier canning. There is still complaint of lack of men to man the boats ready for service and it is entirely probable that there will be more or less of a scarcity all season. This item of labor is destined to enter somewhat into the result of the season's work. The markets are now about idle. Export buyers show a disposition to await developments and more certain indications of the canning outcome. The information last sent from the Sacramento was to the effect that the run was lessening and that about 10,000 cases represented the packing up to the 1st inst. From the north there are no new developments.

New York mail dates report: The progress of events in commercial affairs has developed no new feature of special interest since last week. The distributive movement of trade, although fairly active, and about equal in volume to last year's record, lacks the snap and animation that usually characterizes progressive improvement, and in most instances prices rule in buyer's favor; there is still an inclination to conservative methods, and without exception buying is confined to covering immediate requirements. The coffee situation is without new feature, and, for the time being, is independent of speculative influences and European markets. East India descriptions have received more attention and business has been transacted at higher prices. Refined sugar has met a moderate demand at unchanged prices. Cased petroleum is firmer at 9½c, under better call for barrels. The sale of mackerel has been exceedingly light, but with no stock of consequence offering prices are unchanged. Cod remain quiet and steady. Box herring are easily disposed of upon arrival at full prices. Barrel are neglected.

According to advices received at New York the total shipments of tea from China and Japan during the season now drawing to a close, to the United States and Canada, have been as follows:

Japans, lbs	42,750,000
Greens, lbs	14,750,000
Oolongs, lbs	22,000,000
Congou, lbs	4,250,000
Total lbs	83,750,000
Against last year, lbs	86,750,000

The direct shipments last year are estimated to have been about 5,000,000 pounds in excess of this year, which swells the quantity last year to 91,750,000 pounds actual supply, against the 83,750,000 pounds shown above. With the natural increase in consumption, this ought to result in reducing the stock on hand on the 1st of July next to at least 10,000,000 pounds. Cable advices from Japan report settlement of new crop of finest to choice at $31 and $40 per picul, or 10@11c above present New York prices for the same grades of old crop.

BEANS—Steady market. Quote small whites $4 50, pinks $3, bayos $3, butter $4 and Limas $4 50 per cental. Advices report weakness in first markets for red, pea and white.

COFFEE—Firm market; prices on best grades more generally savoring the extremes quoted. We quote Salvador 16c, Costa Rica 18@20c, Rio 18@20c, Java 27½c, Arbuckle's roasted 21c.

COAL OIL—Firm at 21c for an ordinary brand, the call being only a fair one.

CANNED GOODS—We now quote table fruits, assorted 2½s, $2 10@2 25, and 8s, $5 50; blackberries, gooseberries and cherries, 2½s, $2@2 25; currants, grapes and peaches $2 25@2 40, strawberries $2 50, raspberries $3, plums $2, pineapples $2 25@2 75, apricots $2. Pie fruits, assorted, 2½s, $1 25, and 8s $3 75; apricots, blackberries, gooseberries, cherries and peaches, 2½s, $1 25@1 50; squash, $1 50. Jellies and jams, assorted, $1 65@1 75. Corn $1 35@1 50, tomatoes $1 for 2½s, beans $1, peas $1 40, asparagus $2 25, mushrooms $2 50, French peas $2@2 50.

SALT—Not so firm, but no material weakness locally. Fine Liverpool quoted $18, $19 and $20, as to size of containers. Stock salt, $10.

PICKLES—Higher under advices. Kegs now quoted $1 30@1 40 for 3s and 5s.

SUGARS—The market is ⅛c lower for whites and ⅛c lower for yellows. Sixty day prices for barrels now are: Golden C, 5⅝c; extra C, 5⅝c; dry granulated, 7 c; cube, crushed, fine crushed and powdered, 7⅜c. Halves and boxes, ¼@½c higher.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The stock market was again weak in the forenoon, but recovered later in the day and became very active and decidedly strong, the list making material advances. The close was active and firm, at or near the best prices of the day. The active list to-night almost invariably shows an advance, though Burlington & Quincy, notwithstanding its recovery, is still 1¼ lower, but Western Union and Kansas & Texas are up 1½ each, Canada Southern 1 per cent., and others fractional amounts.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REVIEW.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—All the markets exhibited a better tone last week, owing to the rains, which, though slight, saved crops in some sections and improved them in all. The assignment of Wm. T. Coleman & Co. was a surprise not only to the street but to commercial circles throughout the coast and Eastern states. No serious check to trade on account of the assignment is expected.

Wheat has been quieter during the past week, as the late showers checked the advance. Reports from different portions of the state say that while some sections will suffer from dry weather, the aggregate crop will exceed that of last year.

Oats are quiet and unchanged.

New potatoes are bringing better prices, as they are now sufficiently matured to ship, and there is a good demand for them.

Butter has gone up slightly, and is firm at the advance, with moderate receipts.

Cheese has declined again, and is weak and quiet.

New hay appeared and sold at higher prices than usual at this season. Arrivals thus far have been unusually fine. Old hay is weaker, owing to the appearance of the new crop.

Hops continue neglected and nominal, at very low prices.

Local buyers and scourers are taking hold of wool in a small way, but Eastern buyers have not begun to purchase; hence the market is still dull.

Live stock is weak all around. Hogs and lard are both lower. Beef is easy, but unchanged. Mutton is plentiful and weak. Calves are coming in freely.

Canned salmon is quiet and easier at $1 62½ to $1 65 per dozen for Columbia river, and $1 35 to $1 40 for Alaska. Fair sales of the latter on Eastern account are reported. The British Columbia pack has been almost all sold on British and Australian account, and the balance is sold at $1 40 to $1 60 per dozen.

The demand for vessels to load coal at Australia for this port has dwindled down considerably. A good many vessels were chartered last month to load lumber at Puget sound for Australia and South Africa.

Prices for lumber show no change. A steady demand is reported.

Shipments of specie from this port during the first four months of 1888 were $5,469,490.

The Correct Time.

There are very few men who do not pride themselves on always having the correct time; and wonderful and delicate mechanisms are devised to enable them to do so. But the more delicate a chronometer is made, the more subject it becomes to derangement, and unless it be kept always perfectly clean, it soon loses its usefulness. What wonder, then, that the human machine—so much more delicate and intricate than any work of Man—should require to be kept thoroughly cleansed. The liver is the main-spring of this complex structure, and on the impurities left in the blood by a disordered liver, depend most of the ills that flesh is heir to. Even consumption (which is lung-scrofula), is traceable to the imperfect action of this organ. Kidney diseases, skin diseases, sick headache, heart disease, dropsy, and a long catalogue of grave maladies have their origin in a torpid, or sluggish liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, by establishing a healthy, normal action of the liver, acts as a cure and preventive of these diseases.

TALKS WITH POLITICIANS.

Joseph Simon Confident of Success in State and County.

The Outlook in Clatsop County—Doubt Whether John P. Irish Will Stamp Oregon.—Local News and Gossip.

Joseph Simon, ex-chairman of the republican state central committee was asked yesterday for his opinion regarding the chances of his party in the June election. He said: "We have assurances that we will re-elect our congressman by a large majority. Mr. Hermann will run splendidly in this county. The disposition among republicans is to vote the straight ticket so as not to lose a single man. Penumbra Kelly, our candidate for sheriff will run remarkably well on this side of the river; also on the east side. He will get every republican vote in the county. It is substantially the same with every other candidate and the people who work on election day are going to see that every man shall be elected. There has been some talk about 'cutting' certain candidates. I have traced it and find that there is no foundation for it. That's your experience, is it not, Mr. Ward," said Mr. Simon, turning to John P. Ward, who was perusing a paper.

"Yes, sir; yes, sir," said Mr. Ward, glancing up. Then he resumed his paper.

Mr. Simon continued: "In fact there is no reason for any cutting. We have a strong ticket and we want to elect every man. We are confident that we will have a good working majority in both houses of the next legislature. Private advices received by me are to the effect that the party is in splendid shape. Chairman Barin, of the state central committee, stated this morning that everything is in excellent shape, and that not one discouraging letter has been received by him. The tariff will be the paramount issue in the coming campaign."

CLATSOP COUNTY POLITICS.

C. W. Fulton, of Astoria, one of the republican candidates for presidential elector, is at the St. Charles. Replying to an OREGONIAN reporter's question last evening he said: "The republicans of Clatsop county are better organized than they have been for a great many years, the party feeling is stronger and the prospect of success splendid. I consider the outlook better than it has ever been at this period before election. In state and national elections Clatsop county usually goes republican by small majorities. In June I think the majority of the republican ticket will be fully 100 and in November the presidential nominee of the party will receive a similar majority. Hermann will run a little ahead of his ticket. His industry in congress and his earnest efforts to obtain large appropriations for the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia and the Cascade locks have made him very popular. Our people are deeply interested in the tariff question, particularly in regard to lumber. Free lumber would almost destroy our industry, which is rapidly building up. It would also admit British Columbia as a strong competitor for the California trade. A large portion of the people of Astoria are working people, and they take great interest in the discussion of the tariff question, and generally they are in favor of protection."

WILL COL. IRISH COME?

A. Bush, chairman of the democratic state central committee, has announced the times and places when John P. Irish, editor of the San Francisco Alta, will address the people. The Californian will begin working his submaxillary at Ashland May 12, and will speak in Portland June 2, at 8 P. M. Notwithstanding this announcement, it is learned from republican sources in San Francisco that Col. Irish will not stump the state, the Cleveland administration having decided that it could do better in Oregon without his presence. However, this report was received previous to the publication of Mr. Bush's card giving the list of Col. Irish's appointments. If he does come, John F. Swift, the republican nominee for governor of California in 1886, who was defeated by the late Washington Bartlett, will also make his debut and will talk for the republican side.

COL. EFFINGER'S SPEECH.

W. D. Hare's story of Bent. Killin's speech-writing, printed in THE OREGONIAN, was the talk of all democrats, and republicans, too, yesterday, and there was a great deal of mirth over it. Judge Bellinger was on hand with another equally good. He told about meeting Col. W. H. Effinger, who was carrying a roll of manuscript. Col. Effinger had just read the Killin episode, and, anxious not to appear in a similar light, he walked up to Judge Bellinger, and, holding out the roll at arm's length, said: "Bellinger, do you see this speech? I am going to a typewriter's and I want you to accompany me, and, if it ever should be necessary, to swear on your honor that I am the author of it."

"Not by a durned sight," replied Judge Bellinger, with a serio-comic look. "You got Killin to write that speech, then you copied it off and now you want to ring me in on the typewriter racket; but it don't go." Everybody who heard the story had a hearty laugh.

EUGENE C. PROTZMAN'S PLANS.

The democratic county committee has informally discussed the plans of ex-Chairman Protzman, which were the cause of more or less of the discord prevalent at the recent democratic county convention. A prominent democrat told a reporter yesterday, that these plans begun by Mr. Protzman, will be carried out if there is enough money in the treasury. About $400 is needed. The plan is to put Mr. Protzman in charge of that department.

GEARIN'S CONDITION IMPROVED.

John M. Gearin, the democratic nominee for congress, was much improved yesterday and was able to leave his bed. He expects now to resume his speech-making on the 14th, when he will address the people at Roseburg.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY STARTED.

A Tannery to be Established at Once With $15,000 Capital.

Every new enterprise meets with the hearty encouragement of the business men of Portland. A merchant said yesterday that the people are ready for anything that will help the business community or bring Portland into prominence as a manufacturing center. Several enterprises, started within a few weeks, have received encouragement from every source. Several days ago there was some talk of the necessity of a tannery. Yesterday articles incorporating the Portland Tanning Company were drawn up and will probably be filed to-day. The incorporators are Herbert Bradley, George B. Markle, Jr., Joseph Doheny, J. L. Hartman and Herman Metzger. Capital stock, $15,000.

The business in which the corporation proposes to engage is the manufacture of all kinds of leather and all products therefrom, to deal in hides and skins and other materials, to transact a general tanning business and to acquire all real estate, machinery, buildings and property necessary for carrying on business.

Speaking to a reporter, Mr. Bradley, one of the incorporators, said yesterday: "We intend to build the tannery at once and have it in operation inside of thirty days. It will be situated in Caruthers addition, in the gulch, just east of the South First street bridge. The plant is ready now. Thlor Munthe, a practical tanner, will have charge of the operating department. The principal feature of the business will be the tanning of calf and sheep skins, the manufacture of dongola finish for shoe tops, also of button fly stock. We also intend to tan all kinds of glovers' stock and material, and later on the company may decide to make gloves, mittens, etc. Tere is quite a local demand for what we purpose producing, and we shall also bid for Eastern trade for the button fly stock. A California tannery enjoys a large trade in this line. We intend to make just as fine quality of goods and get our share of the trade. We start out with abundant capital for all needs."

The school directors at their regular meeting to-morrow evening, will investigate charges preferred against Mrs. S. M. Buck, a teacher in the Park school. N. J. Blagen charges Mrs. Buck with chastising his young son too severely.

A little variety was introduced into the usual "liquor to Indians" item furnished by the U. S. marshal's office yesterday. This time it was John Edgar, a negro, who sold the liquor to Mrs. Smith, a squaw. Edgar should read "Rum on the Congo."

The delinquent tax roll was placed in the hands of Sheriff Jordan yesterday for collection. All wishing to save their property from being levied upon and advertised for sale, must pay up with the next five days. The delinquent roll amounts to $27,000.

Locust trees are in full bloom in some places, and load the air with perfume. In other places they are more backward, and the flowers will not be out for several days yet. The locusts are about the latest of our shade trees to bloom, but they are also the most fragrant.

An artist yesterday took several photographic views of the fine British ship Clynder, lying at Pine street wharf. The Clynder has been chartered by the Portland Flouring Mills Company to take flour to Great Britain and she is now discharging 690 tons of San Diego sand ballast.

The smokestack of the steamer Telephone was erected yesterday. A tall pile-driver was used to hoist the huge iron tube over the boat, and then it was lowered into position without accident. With the white band around her smokestack Telephone No. 2 looks like her predecessor.

Says the Prineville News: S. J. Newsom started for the Portland Reduction Works last Monday morning with a thousand pounds of ore from the new ledge on Ochoco. The owners think there is something in it, and it is sincerely hoped that they will have their wildest dreams realized.

Seeing Gov. Pennoyer waiting for a car at the corner of First and Washington yesterday, a reporter approached him in hope of securing an item. "I know nothing new," said the governor. "I am just down from Salem. I had the pleasure of listening to George H. Williams's speech last night, and he made a good speech in a poor cause, that is, as good as it could be."

A FAMILY GARDEN.

The Germania Garden, situated on Jefferson and Sixteenth streets, is one of our most popular places of public amusement. Sundays and week days it is thronged by gay crowds who enjoy in the cool and shady garden a few hours' rest, after the day's toil, the dust and heat of the city. Mr. Fuog the present owner, has made of the place what the name implies, a Family Garden, where the pater familias may bring his wife and little ones, without coming in contact with objectionable characters, which are strictly excluded. All the refreshments furnished are of the best and freshest, the charges reasonable and Mr. Fuog spares no pains to make his guests feel comfortable and at home. So give him a call. The Morrison or Washington street cars carry you within four blocks of the place. A better place for picnics and private parties is not to be found in the vicinity.

A NEW PASTOR INSTALLED

Interesting Ceremonies at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Arthur J. Brown Formally Accepts Vows—Sermon by His Worthy Predecessor—Musical Exercises.

The Reverend Arthur J. Brown was formally installed last night as the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city. The ceremonies attending the installation were elaborate and most impressive, and the church was well filled with a large and attentive congregation. The order of exercises was begun by Mrs. George E. Withington, organist, who played a voluntary while the late-comers were taking their seats. The quartette, Mrs. Edgar E. Coursen, soprano; Mrs. David Goodsell, contralto; Mr. R. K. Warren, tenor; and Mr. Wm. Denholm, basso; then sang an anthem, at the close of which Rev. W. S. Holt, moderator of presbytery, introduced Rev. Wm. Morrison who made the invocation prayer. Rev. E. W. Brown, of the First Presbyterian church of Seattle next read the fourth chapter of I. Timothy, in which the sin of apostacy is foretold. Mrs. Coursen sang "Come Unto Me," with much feeling, her clear soprano voice seldom having been heard to better advantage.

Rev. A. L. Lindsley, D. D., for many years pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city but now a professor in the Presbyterian Theological seminary at San Francisco, delivered the sermon of the evening. He had chosen for his text the second chapter, First Epistle to the Hebrews, beginning at the eighth verse, the theme being the obedience due to Christ. He also incorporated the whole of the eighth Psalm, which breathes of God's great love to man. After reading his text carefully through, the doctor began one of the most eloquent efforts of his long and honored life. For fifty minutes the learned divine carried his hearers along with him, and held their strict attention, quite as much by the beauty and strength of his language and the symmetry and exquisite application of his similes, as by the soundness of his doctrinal views.

Rev. J. V. Milligan of St. John's Presbyterian church, then read an original hymn; which was afterward sung by the congregation all standing. Rev. W. S. Holt the moderator of the Presbytery then propounded the following constitutional questions to Mr. Brown as laid down in the Confession of Faith:

Q.—Are you now willing to take the charge of this congregation, as their pastor, agreeably to your declaration at accepting their call?

Mr. Brown—I am.

Q.—Do you conscientiously believe and declare, as far as you know your own heart, that in taking upon you this charge you are influenced by a sincere desire to promote the glory of God and the good of the church?

Mr. Brown—I do.

Q.—Do you solemnly promise that by the assistance of the grace of God you will endeavor faithfully to discharge all the duties of a pastor to this congregation, and will be careful to maintain a deportment in all respects becoming a minister of the gospel of Christ, agreeably to your ordination engagements.

Mr. Brown—"I do."

Mr. Holt then addressed the following formular to the congregation, they assenting to all, by the raising of the right hand.

Do you, the people of this congregation continue to profess your readiness to receive Arthur J. Brown whom you have called to be your minister?

Do you promise to receive the word of truth from his mouth, with meekness and love; and to submit to him in the due exercise of discipline?

Do you promise to encourage him in his arduous labor, and to assist his endeavors for your instructions and spiritual edification?

And do you engage to continue to him, while he is your pastor, that competent worldly maintenance which you have promised; and whatever else you may see needful for the honor of religion and his comfort among you?

Rev. Thomas Boyd, of the Fourth church of this city, then made the installing prayer, after which Mrs. Goodsell sang the prayer "Hear Me," in which her rich contralto voice fairly reveled.

The charge to the pastor was delivered by Rev. Donald Ross. He spoke long and forcibly and held the attention of all through his entire address. Besides a number of other common sense bits of advice, Mr. Ross closed his effort with an earnest charge to Mr. Brown and his wife to take care above all things, of their health.

Rev. Warren H. Landon, D. D., of Calvary church, charged the people with their duty to the new pastor. He spoke extemporaneously and well. Among a number of other charges he bade them be good listeners, and said he would reverse the saying that a brilliant minister would make an attentive congregation, and that he firmly believed an attentive congregation would make an earnest, good minister, if not a brilliant one.

Rev. R. Gilpin, of the Seamen's Bethel, then read the welcoming hymn, which was sung after him by the congregation.

The benediction was pronounced, the people all standing, by the new pastor, Rev. Arthur J. Brown.

The installation closed by Rev. W. A. Forbes, of Albina, introducing the pastor to his people in a few well chosen remarks, after which the greater part of the audience went up and shook hands with their new pastor, wishing him God speed and promising their hearty co-operation.

FINE BUILDING OUTLOOK.

This Year's Improvements Will Far Exceed Any Previous Year.

Some have an idea that there is not so much building going on as there should be, but they must consider that the city is larger than it used to be, and to form any correct estimate of the amount of building going on involves a large amount of travel.

A prominent architect and builder is authority for the statement that at present there are more buildings and dwellings in the course of construction than there have been at one time for a number of years past, and that there will be more new buildings erected and commenced during the coming year than there has been during the past three years.

There is no article in the line of medicines that gives so large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters.

TRADE IN FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

Interesting Talk with a Dealer—Consumption of Citrus Fruits, Etc.

"How many of those vegetables were raised in Oregon?" asked a reporter, glancing over the display at one of the leading groceries yesterday.

"Well, I think a pretty fair proportion of them, for this time of year," was the reply.

"Look at that pieplant," he continued, "it beats the world. The stalks are two feet long and an inch thick. It is sent in from down the river somewhere. The man who grows it markets 2000 pounds a week, and gets 4 cents a pound.

"Then there is asparagus which surpasses any we get from California. In fact all our Oregon vegetables do, and as soon as they can be had there is no more sale for the California stuff. This asparagus is green and tender, and, properly cooked, is one of the most delicious of vegetables, rivaling green peas. It is not to be mentioned in the same day as the blanched, woody stuff sent here from California, of which only the top is edible, and even that is insipid compared with this.

"Then we have plenty of lettuce, radishes, young turnips, green onions and spinach. The only fruit coming in yet is green gooseberries, of which there are plenty and very fine ones. Green peas, string beans, summer squash, new potatoes, cabbages, cauliflower and celery we have to bring from California as yet, but in a short time our gardeners will supply most of them. Those Italian artichokes are not raised here. They are not in great demand, being used principally by the French and Italians."

"You make quite a display of oranges," said the reporter.

Yes, there are a great many used here now. Apples, you see, are out of season, although a few can be found on fruit stalls. There are three carloads of oranges received here every five days. About sixty boxes per day are consumed in the city, and 120 shipped up the country.

"Are there many lemons used here?"

"About five carloads per month are received here, of which one-third are used in Portland and the rest sent to various parts of the country."

"How about limes?"

"The trade in limes here is controlled by one man, an Italian, who peddles them around the saloons. The limes are used principally by saloons, none go to the country, nor are they used on the sound. They furnish more acid than lemons according to their size, but it is not so good. The man who deals in limes made enough to indulge in a trip to Europe, but none of our commission men pay any attention to them."

A commission man corroborated the statement above made in regard to the amount of oranges and lemons used here, and added; "This is the best jobbing town of its size on the coast. They call us slow, but we are growing all the same and are not so slow as some think. In the boomed towns of California there is really nothing going on except retail business. People must have something to eat, of course, but they spend the most of their time sitting around swapping boom lies. You don't see a truck load of goods of any kind moving, while we—well, just look down Front street."

A glance revealed the street for blocks fairly choked with trucks loading and unloading goods of all kinds, and with a wave of his hand the merchant said: "That is how business in Portland goes."

or in manufacturing and other enterprises, Albina presents to-day the most absolute assurance of the largest increase on such investments of any spot in Oregon. It is beautifully situated on the river opposite the north end of Portland, and DOWN the river from the central portion of Portland. The bridges already built, under construction and contemplated, are fast driving the heavy business of the city and nearly all of the shipping further and further down stream. Soon all of it will be carried on below the railway and passenger bridge. Albina will get the benefit of this move, and even now she has the built by the Northern Pacific Terminal Co., in which the O. R. & N. Co., the Union Pacific, the Oregon Short Line, Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific Companies are interested, are located here. These shops have just been completed, and will soon commence operations with a large force of workmen.

Other industrial enterprises are located here, among which are the Portland Flouring Mills, the largest in Oregon. A dry dock capable of accommodating the largest ship afloat, is now also under construction. Several companies are now organizing to embark in other industrial and manufacturing enterprises, all of which will be located at Albina, because it is here that
